The Days of Youth

The days of youth pass so quickly
They are grasped for a moment and then gone
And yet, the rest of your life depends
On these brief days of youth.
This is a time to:
search for an identity
learn from your mistakes
gain a world of knowledge
feel pride in reaching a goal
have the courage to lead
be able to give of yourself take the sorrow with the joy know right from wrong accept the problems of life.
The days pass so quickly and youth will be left behind.
All those tomorrows will become yesterdays.
But the future can be faced with hope and unafraid,
If you have the strength to live what you believe.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

Have the Courage to Lead

Eighteen-Hundred Depend

Many changes occurred in the offices this year. Carolyn Decker was the advisors' secretary, but when she married, Debbie Studley replaced her. The Sophomores received a new counselor, Mr. Burmeister. A move from pronting to advising Juniors was made by Mr. Rassbach. Also, Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Coffman gave up their "Deanships" to become administrative assistants. While retaining previous duties, Mr. Tealey was made Assistant Principal.

Seeking the advice of other coordinators, Mr. Tealey formulates curriculum activities.

Student troubles are a part of Mr. Johnson's schedule.

Mrs. Coffman learns both sides of a student's problem.

Paperwork is a necessary component of Mr. Berg's routine.

Mr. James Bowman councels a graduating student on a suitable career.

n Their Careers

Mr. Burmeister checks up on one of his students.

Busy doing research, Mr. Rassbach becomes better acquainted with the Juniors.

Senior Counselor, Mr. Barnes, corrects students' class schedule changes.

Roll cards by the hundreds pass daily through the hands of Mrs. Page.

Carolyn Decker helps students make appointments with the class advisors.

Memorial's financial situation is kept on file in the Booster Office by Kathy Malles.

Disciples of Education Retire

Miss Irene Berg

Mrs. Marie Chatterson

Mr. John Haig

Memorial regrets the loss of three faculty members who have devoted their lives to the education of young people.

Latin and English have been Miss Irene Berg's areas in teaching for thirty-four years. She graduated from Eau Claire University in 1932 and over a period of years earned her M.A. at the University of Denver in 1953. Sponsoring Memorial's Latin Club for a number of years has been Miss Berg's extra school activity, and as a result she became state co-chairman of the Junior Classical League. Miss Berg, who has traveled extensively in the United States and has been to Europe twice, plans to continue traveling after retiring.

Mrs. Marie Chatterson came to Eau Claire in 1944 where she has taught French and English for over twenty years. She attended Superior and Eau Claire State Universities from which she received her Bachelor Degree. Further courses were taken at the University of North Dakota and Concordia College at Moorehead, Minnesota. Advisor for both French Club and Student Council were among her extra school activities. After retiring, Mrs. Chatterson plans to live in Moorehead and spend her summers at her cottage on Pelican Lake.

Eau Claire saw the arrival of Mr. John Haig in 1928 from the University of North Dakota. Two years later he went on to the University of Wisconsin to receive his Masters Degree. During his career he has taught a wide variety of subjects concerning the histories of America and Europe, government, and economics. He has also been involved in a diversified selection of extra curricular activities such as basketball, track, rifle club, and assistant coach in football.

These three people have enriched the lives of the many students who have passed through their classes through the years.

Area Schools Progress

In 1961, the consolidation of the Eau Claire Area Schools took place and is now under the direction of one school board. Consisting of eight members, the board annually handles routine problems such as the budget, development, and negotiations in the salaries of teachers and custodians. Other subjects discussed this year were new programming in the elementary school, data processing, and modular scheduling.

The issue of whether a new junior high school should be built has been tossed about for the past two years. On November 18, a referendum was held and part of the Town of Union rejected it. This area was the proposed site of the school. Now, a new location must be found if a school is to be built.

Marvin Lansing looks ahead in the future with much ambition as the new superintendent.

School Policies Culminate Here

Caryl Phillips pauses briefly to examine her notes.

As the principal of Memorial, Mr. John Gallagher supervises the education of 1850 students. He makes sure that the students get a broad education in preparation for their future.

The principal's secretary, Caryl Phillips, assists Mr. Gallagher in his numerous tasks.

Dictation is one of the many duties that Mrs. Phillips must perform daily.

Mr. Gallagher, principal of Memorial, works closely with the school body to strive for a better school.

Kathy Strand operated the booth designed for buying milk tickets.

Lunch Program Revised

A new system was used for purchasing lunches, eliminating the inconvenience of tickets. Lunches were paid for upon receiving at the cost of forty cents.

Another addition to the lunch system was the variety of food choices. Students were given several menus to select meals from.

Students find the new system of buying lunches more convenient.

Hours of Service Given Behind the Scenes

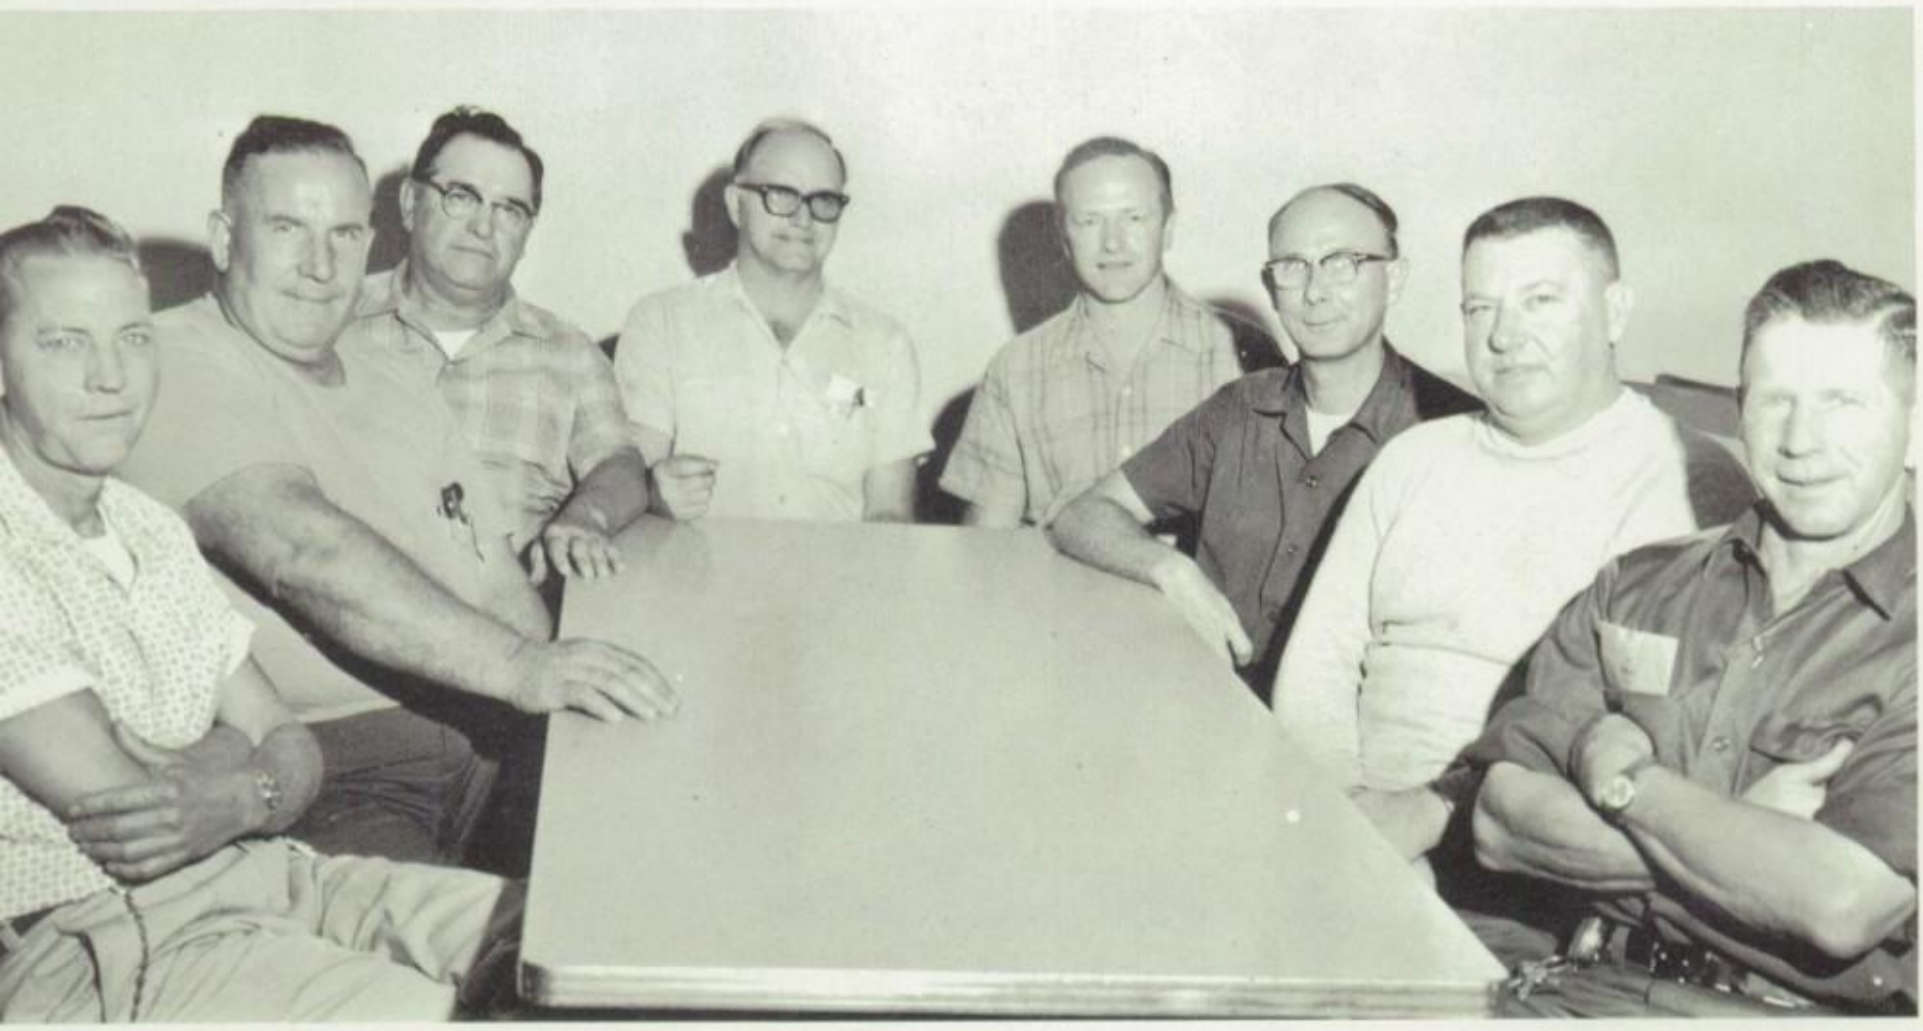
Custodians are necessary to keep the alls and classrooms of Memorial neat and lean. They never know when they will be alled upon to check on something that oesn't seem to be working correctly.

At 3:04, when students are leaving the uilding, the janitors' real work is just be- inning.

Mrs. Paulson and Mrs. Hanson stack towels.

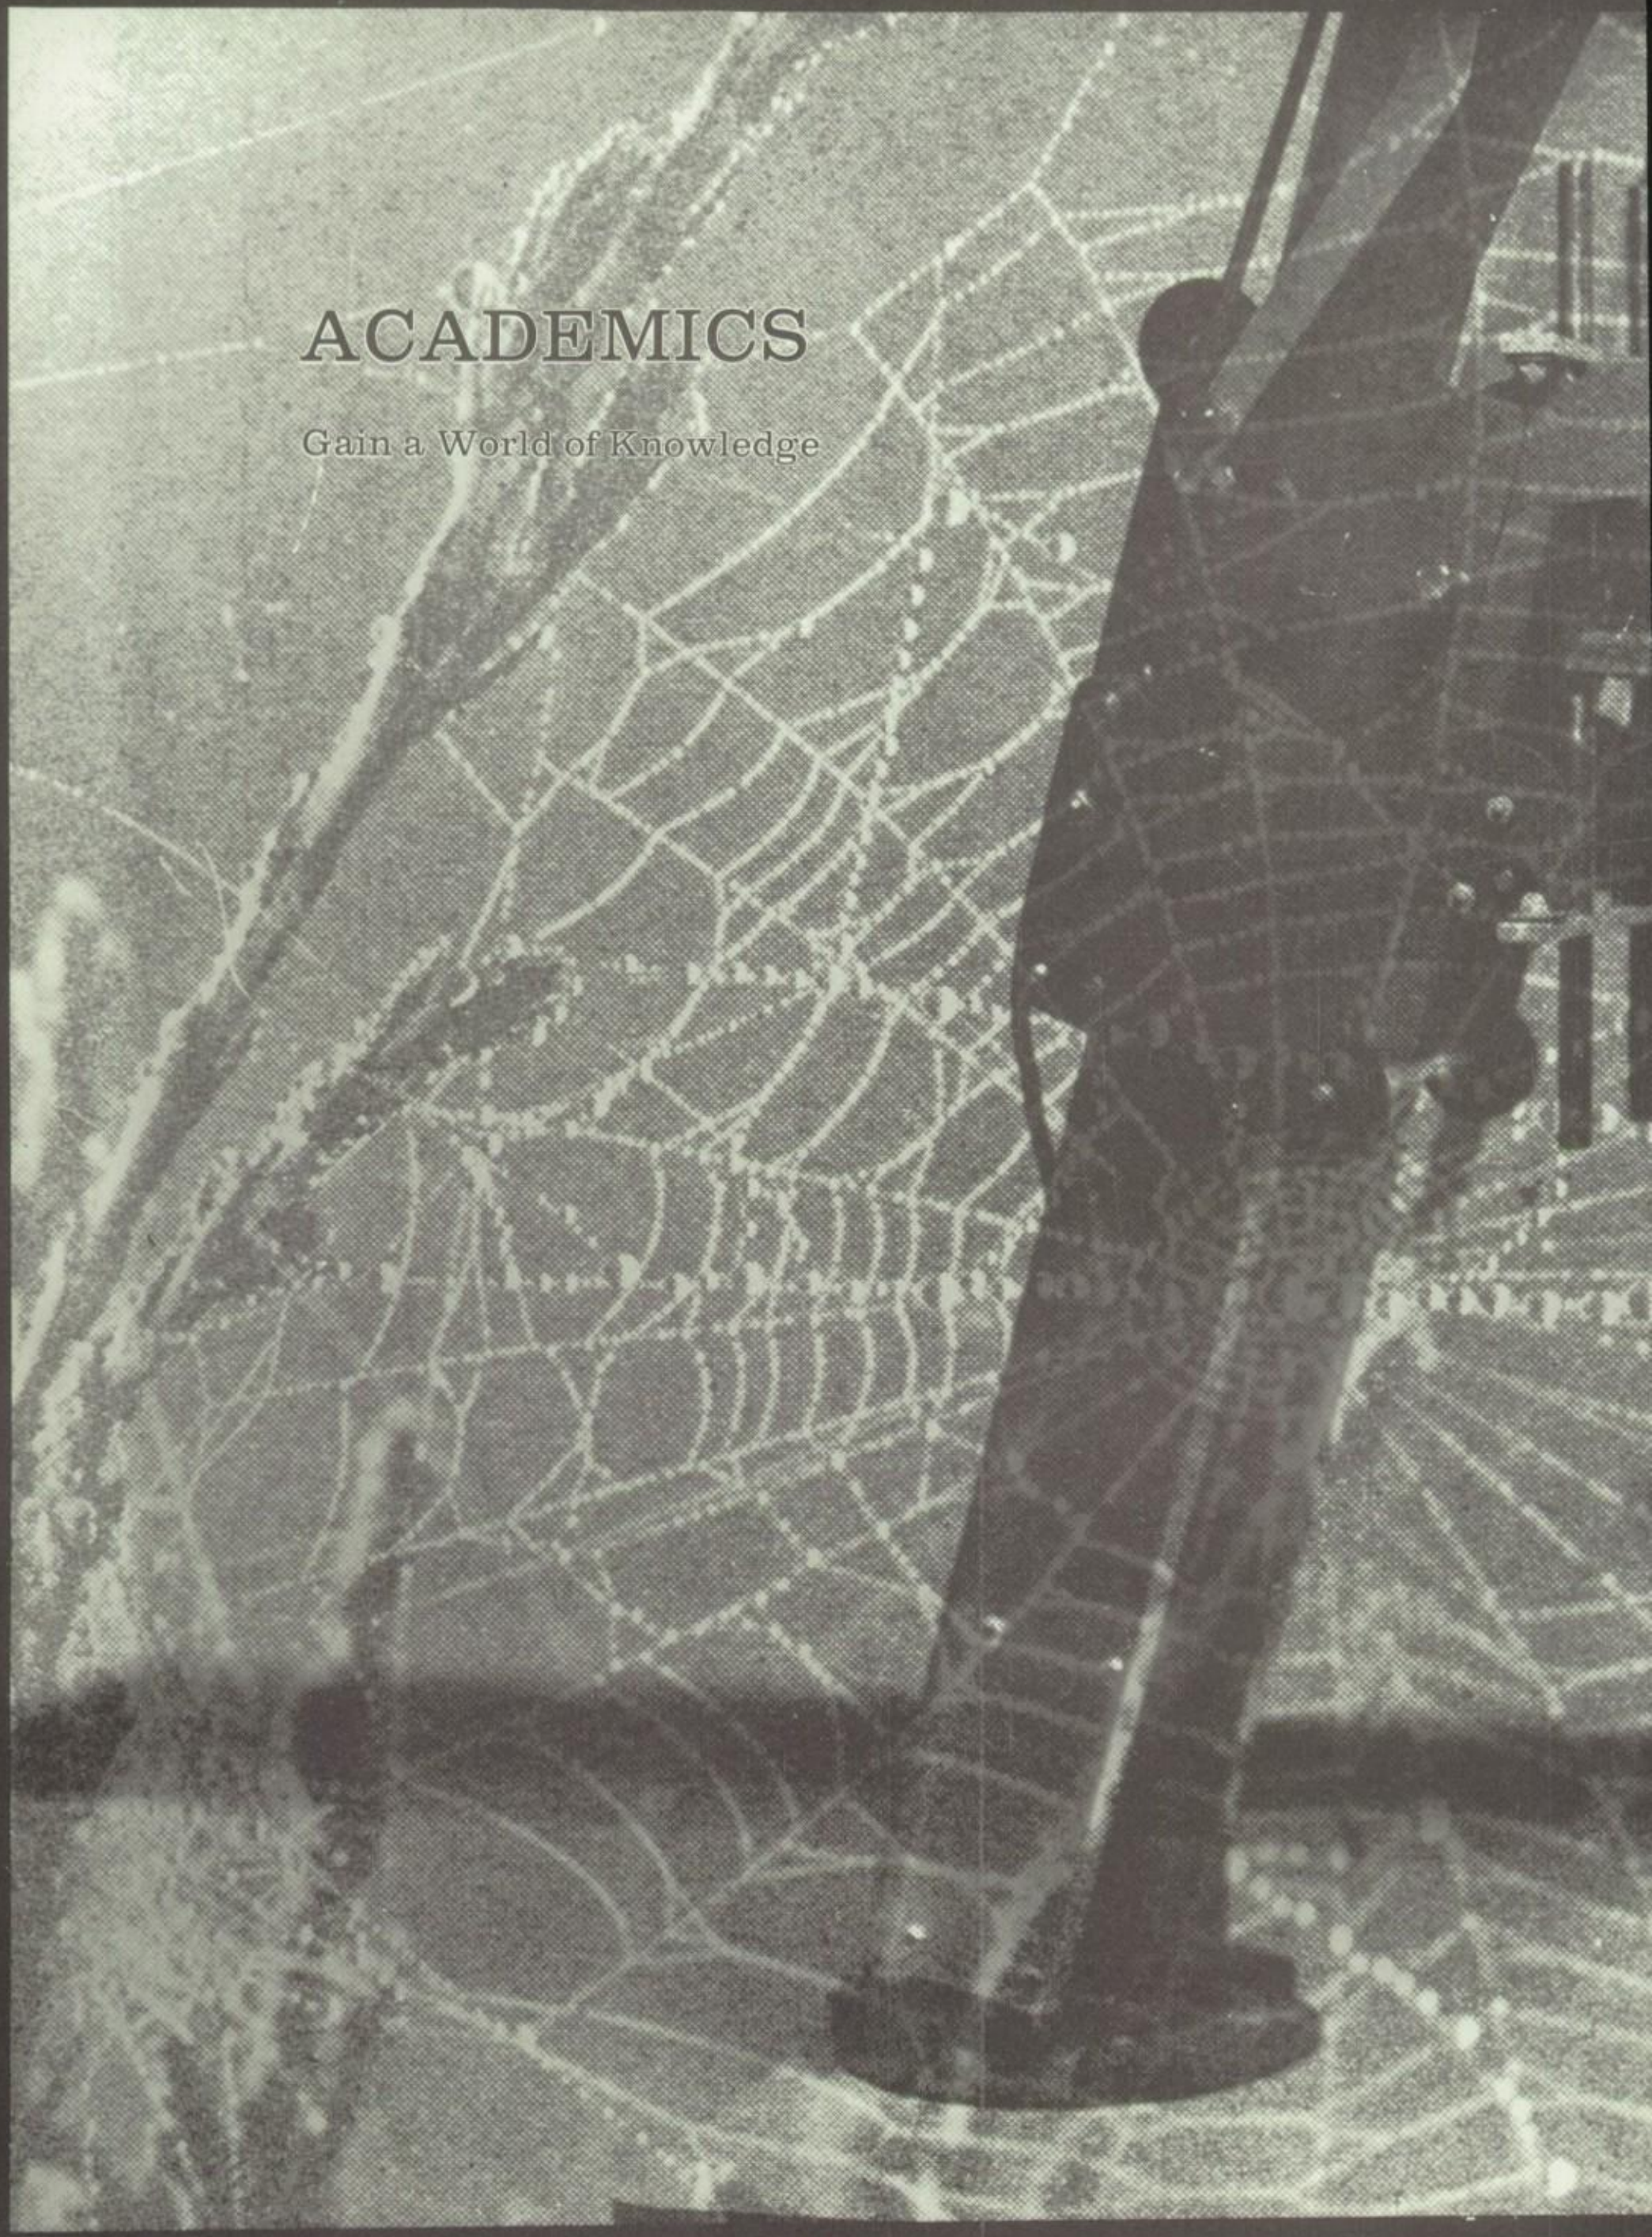
Dusting and cleaning lockers are just two of the many tasks performed by Mrs. Westphal.

M.H.S. Custodians are: Howie Steubing, Donald Livingston, Paul Weiner, Adlore Paulson, Everett Klopp, Doug Clough, Gordon Ingle, Donald Easterson.



ACADEMICS

Gain a World of Knowledge



Minds Probe Life's Secrets

Demonstrating water displacement in chemistry are Lisa Lewis and Jeff Lorentz.

To broaden students' knowledge of geology, astronomy, oceanography, and meteorology, Earth Science, taught by Mr. Daniel Peterson was introduced. In addition, a solid scientific foundation was provided as sophomores were required to take biology, and juniors and seniors were offered chemistry, physics, or bio-chemistry.

Bio-Chem students, Carl Wahl and Jim Ostrum breed fruit flies.

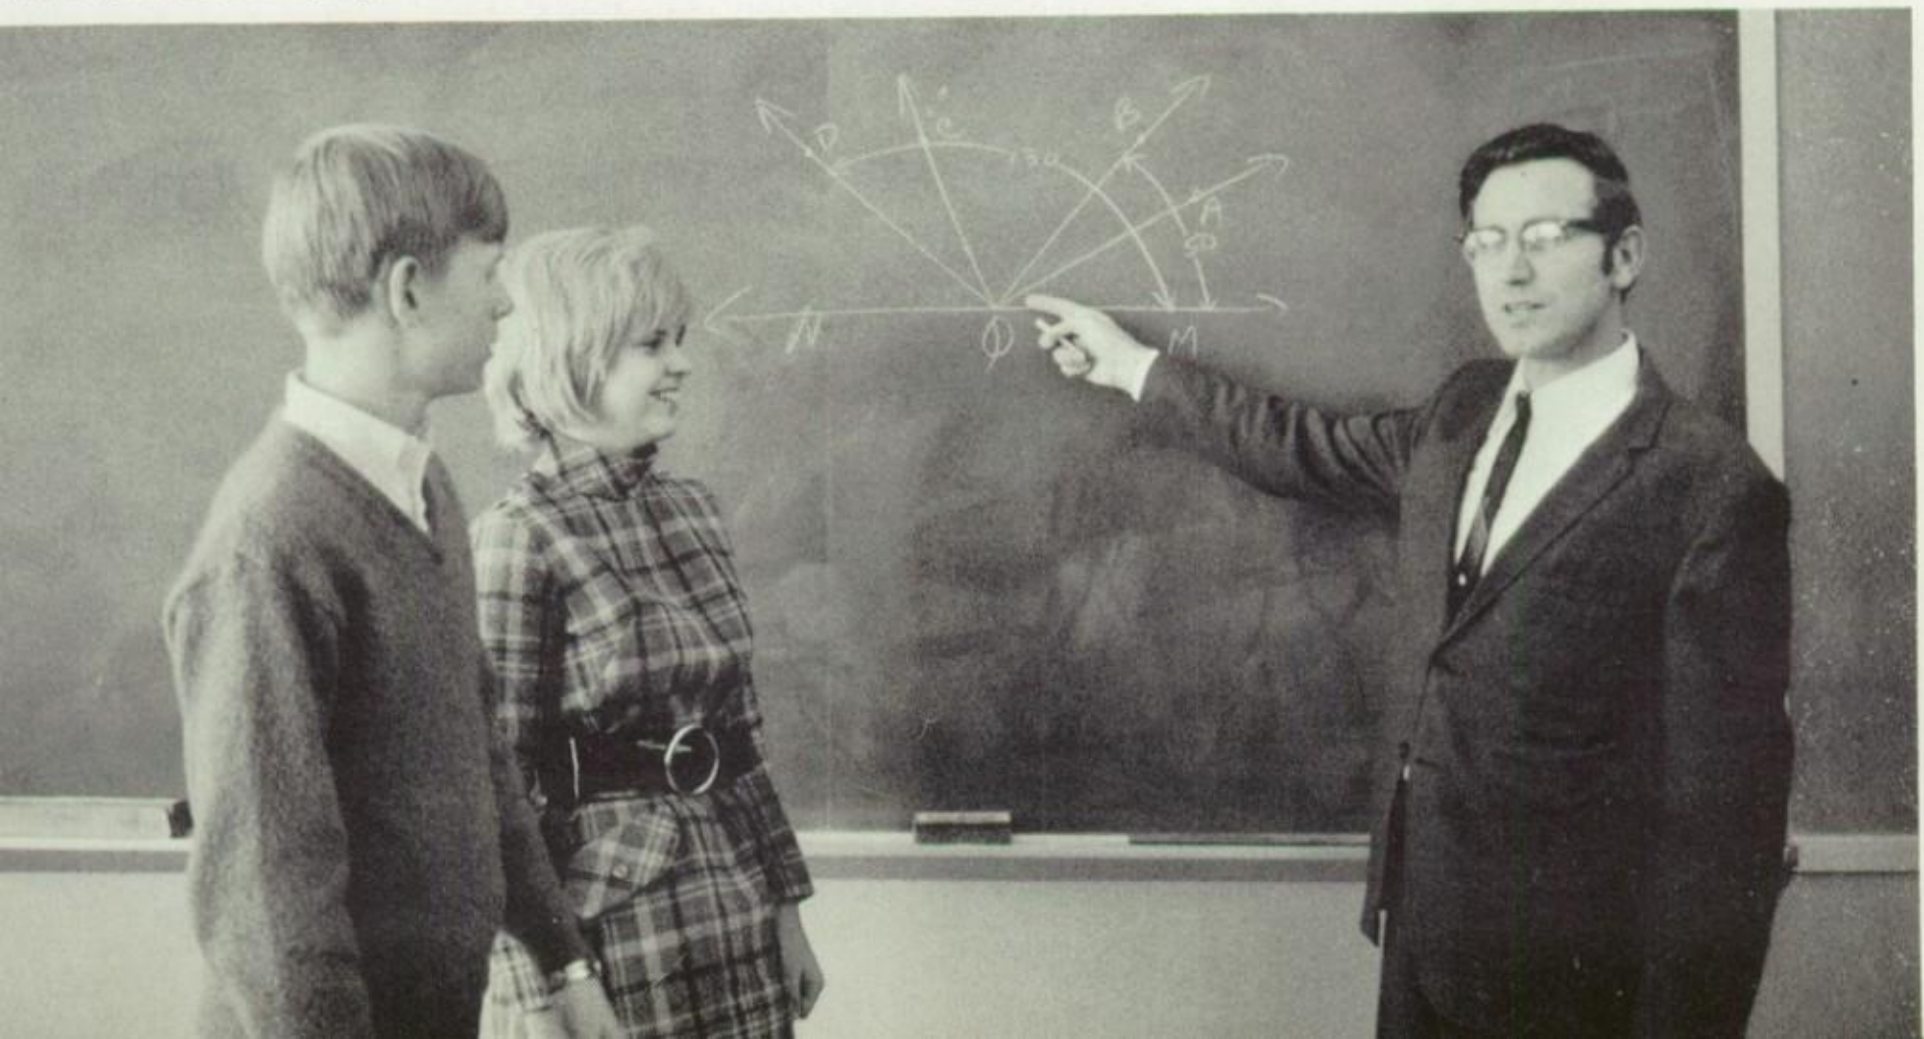
Mr. Hagenbarth's help is essential in solving equations.

Figures Are Limitless

The Math Department offered students wide mastery of skills from Sophomore eometry and Algebra to intermediate and dvanced programs. To extend this field of tudy, electronic data processing under the irection of Mr. Osterhus and Mrs. Renaldi as added. This course combined one semes- er of data processing with computer concepts nd challenged students' skills in keypunch nd computer programming.

Students try their hands at computer programming.

Mr. Peterson conveys geometric functions to Peter Ramberg and Paulette Ponick.



History Is a Passing Minute

Social Science courses' objective was to acquaint Seniors with world situations. One of the highlights was a combined showing of the "Drug Turn On".

A Junior requirement was American History. Besides studying the textbook, students heard various people speak on pertinent subjects.

To modernize the World History course, it was divided into the three courses of Non-western Civilization, Ancient European History, and Modern European History. Each course consisted of a semester in length and counted one-half credit. Non-western Civilization encompassed all of the areas of the world, except Europe and America.

Mr. Hansis presents a lecture on welfare to an American History class.

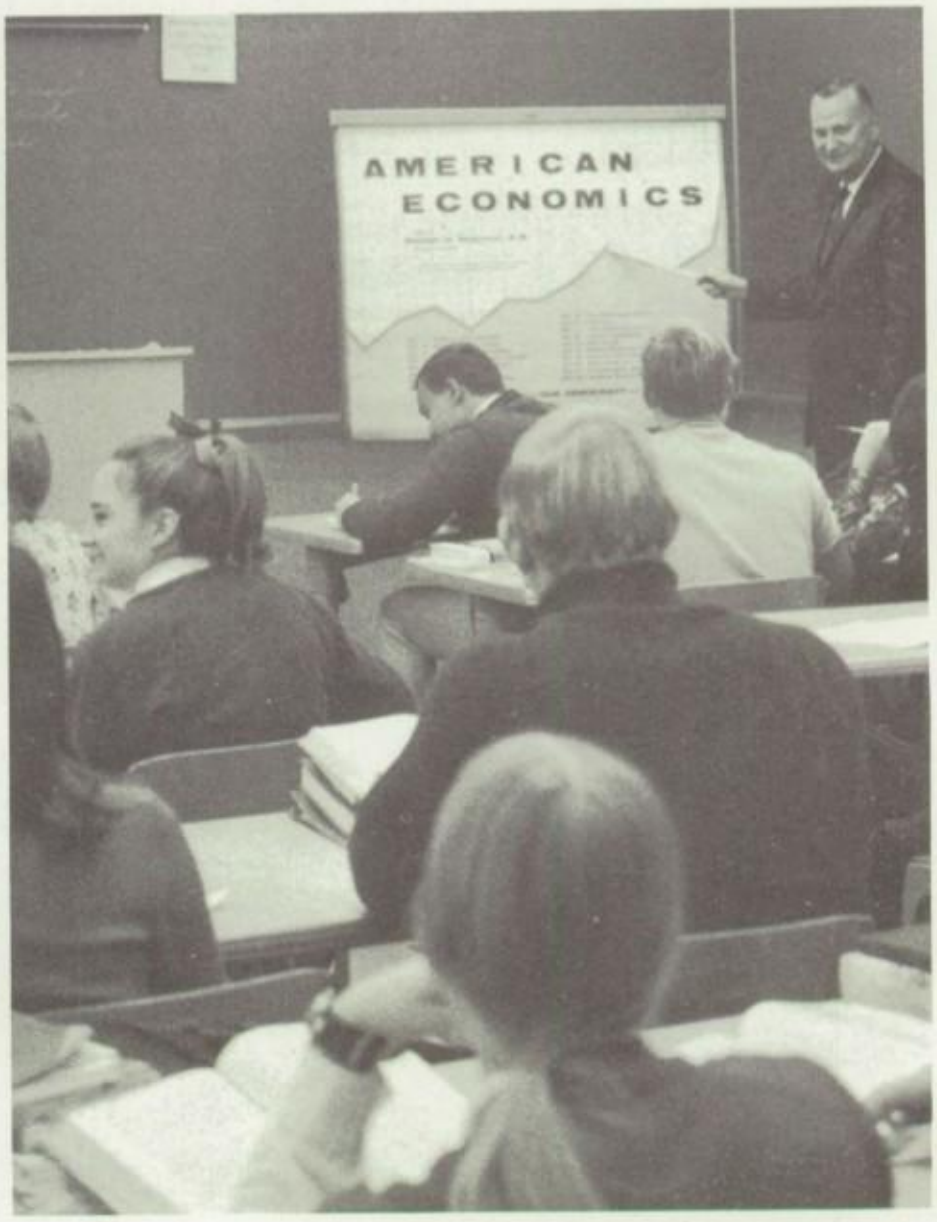
rough use of visual aides, Mr. Poquette explains ndamentals of Psychology.

r. Schuster lectures to his class on the field of overnment.



Mr. Moore explains the practical uses of Economics.

Mr. Blum reviews his notes in preparation for a world problems lecture.

Tests are inevitable.

Past Civilizations Discovered

Ancient-Medieval History, Modern European History, and Non-Western Civilization, a three semester course, replaced the one year World History course formerly offered. The purpose of this program was to enrich and broaden the students' background in history.

Mr. Bohman taught Medieval and Modern European History and Mr. O'Gara taught Non-Western Civilization.

Map study is essential in clarifying history concepts.

Mr. Bohman traps John Kaehler, a latecomer to class.

Culture Taught by Team

This year a course in Humanities was ffered for the first time at Memorial. A team f six teachers from different subject areas aught the course so that the subjects could e related to one another. Covering America rom 1890 to the present, in depth experiences ere provided in art, drama, history, litera- ıre, and music. It is hoped that the sixty-five tudents gained a richer cultural background nd new interests in the creative arts.

Mr. Paulson, Mr. Weber, Mr. Wentz, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Mills, and Mr. Killen team teach Humanities.

Carl Wahl drives a point home.

Students' expressions show various reactions as Mr. Weber proposes a minstrel show.

Language Study Pro

Bulletin boards help to illustrate ideas studied in literature.

English courses stressed literature, grammar, and composition.

Sophomores concentrated on American Literature, compositions, and a quarter of speech, and six weeks of new transformational grammar, taught by a team of three teachers. Juniors worked to improve their writing with studies of grammar, essay writing, and World Literature. Seniors became involved in term papers and English Literature. An experimental independent study program allowed some seniors to conduct individual research.

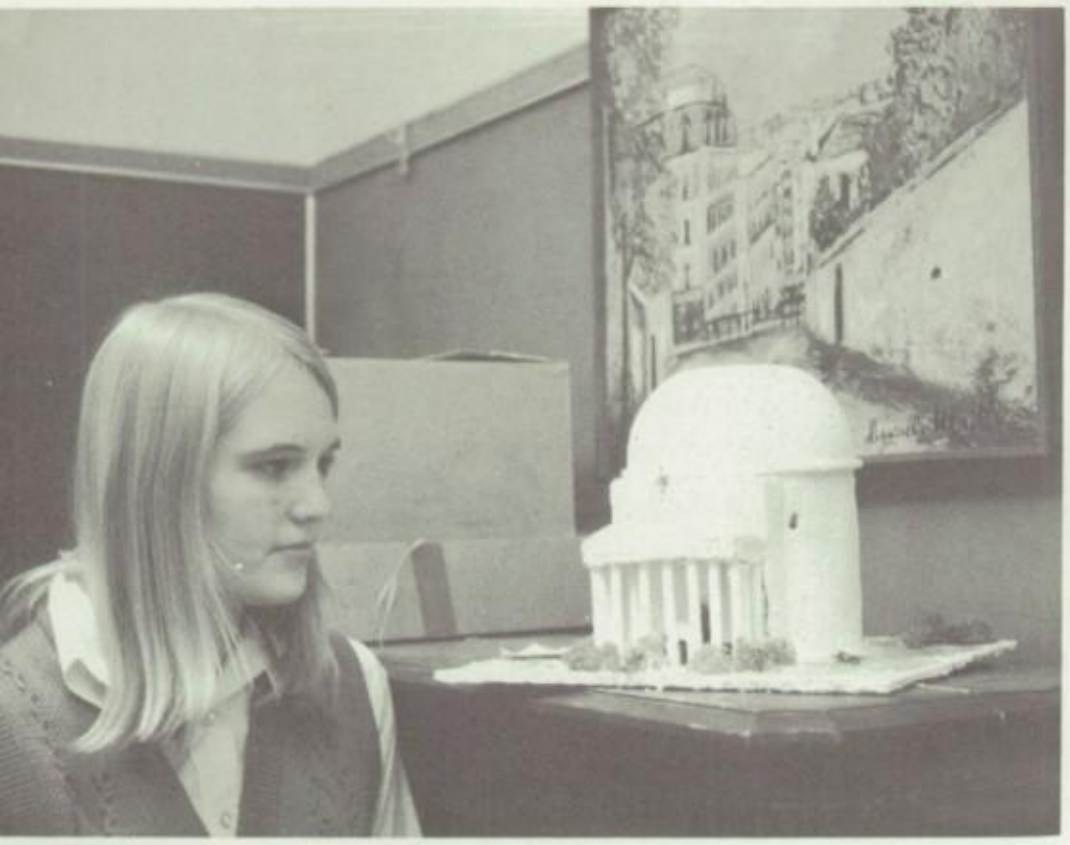
Culture, comprehension, and conversation dominated Memorial's foreign language study. New language labs, containing such equipment as tape recorders, individual headphones, and a phonograph, aided speaking proficiency. These labs proved far more efficient and convenient than the previous ones.

Mr. Skamser's seniors use microfilm for independent study.

Mr. Robinson, Mrs. Patterson, and Mr. Kinney, the team teachers, plan their English program.

Norsen Steen delivers a demonstration speech on the art of swordsmanship.

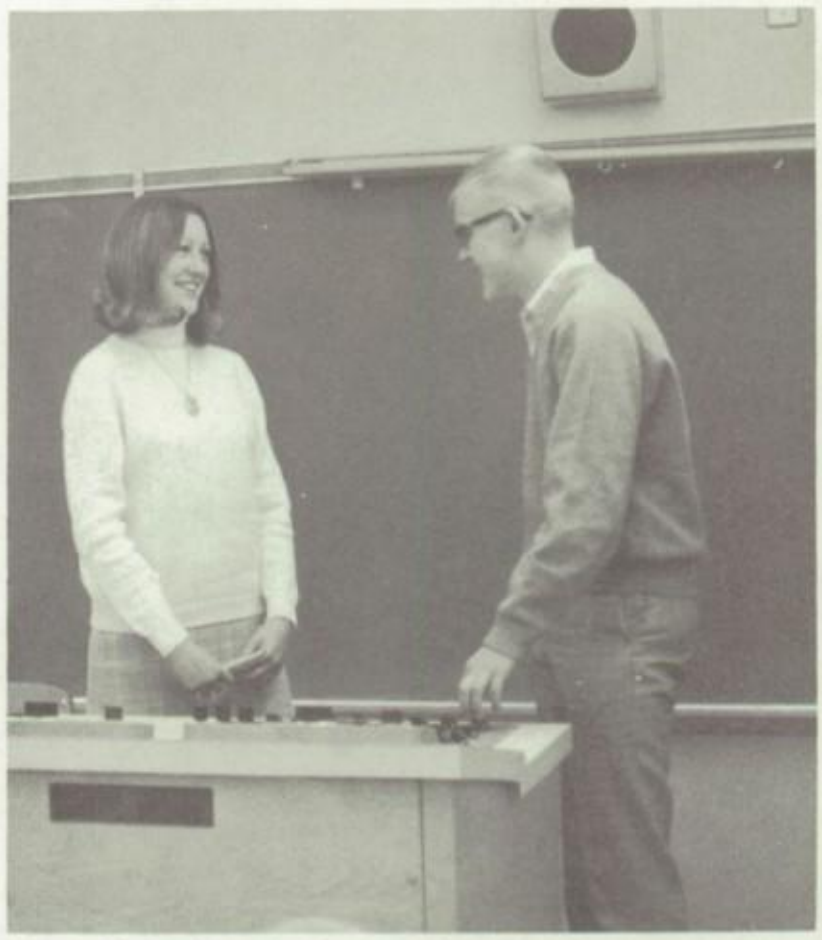
otes Cultural Understanding



Robin Christenson examines Roman architecture as found in his model of the Pantheon.

Rich Hagen and Bob Hansis would make handsome muchachos.

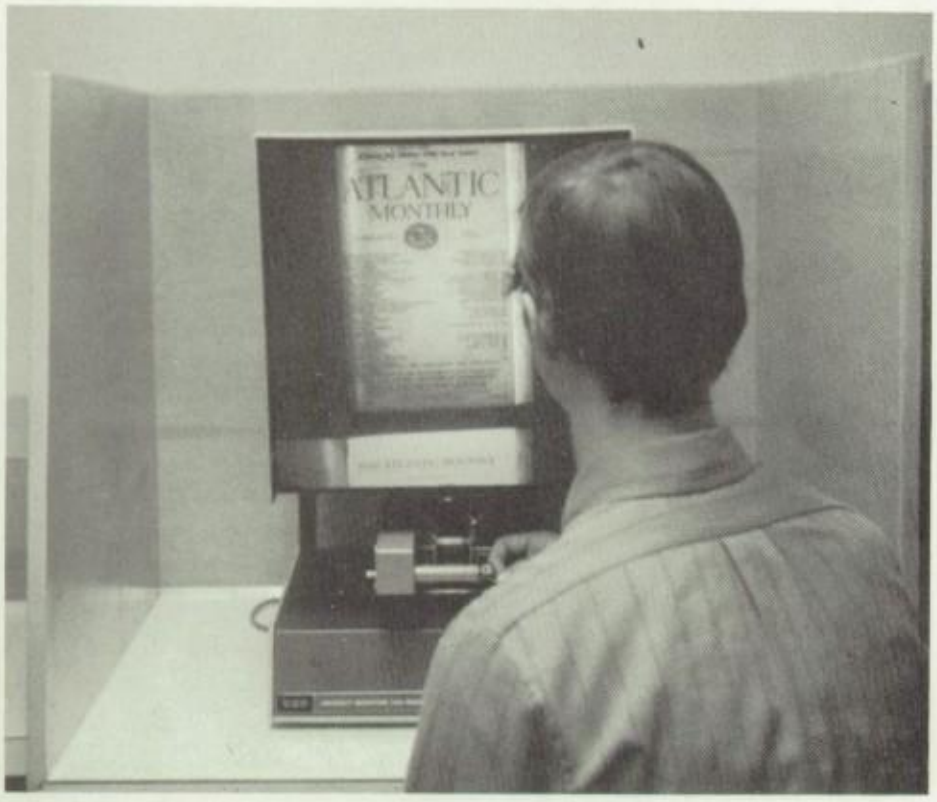
French pronunciation improves by hearing language tapes.



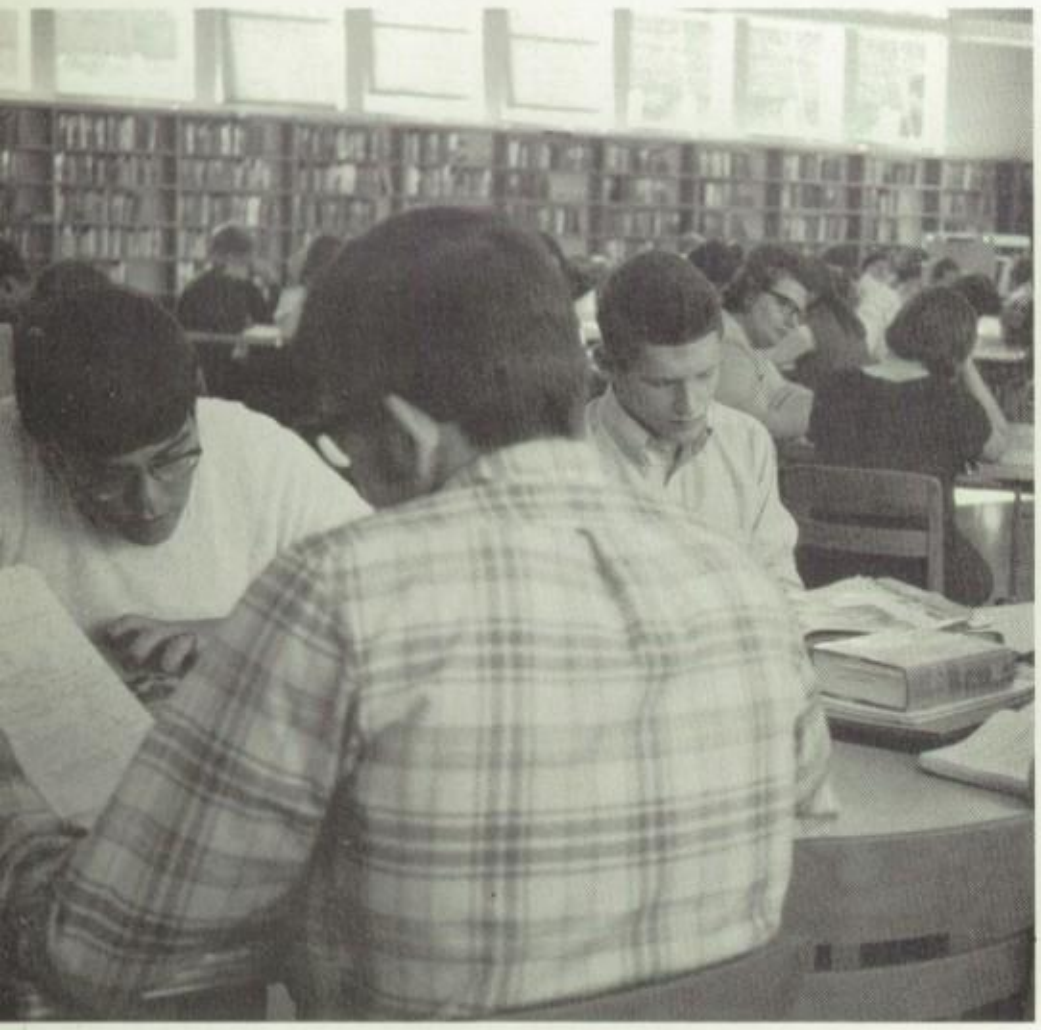
Jane Schultz and Tom McGinnis carry on a German dialogue.

Library Clarifies Questions

Participation was the main theme in the library this year. The librarians planned many different programs such as separate class sessions and a reading day. Student involvement in the microfilm room and other areas helped promote the theme and include the entire population of the school.



Rich Hagen utilizes the microfilm room.



Seniors focus on independent study.

Black listing and book mending are the duties of Mrs. McCuen and Mrs. Duncan.

Student teacher, Mary Clifton, participates in Library Read-In Day.

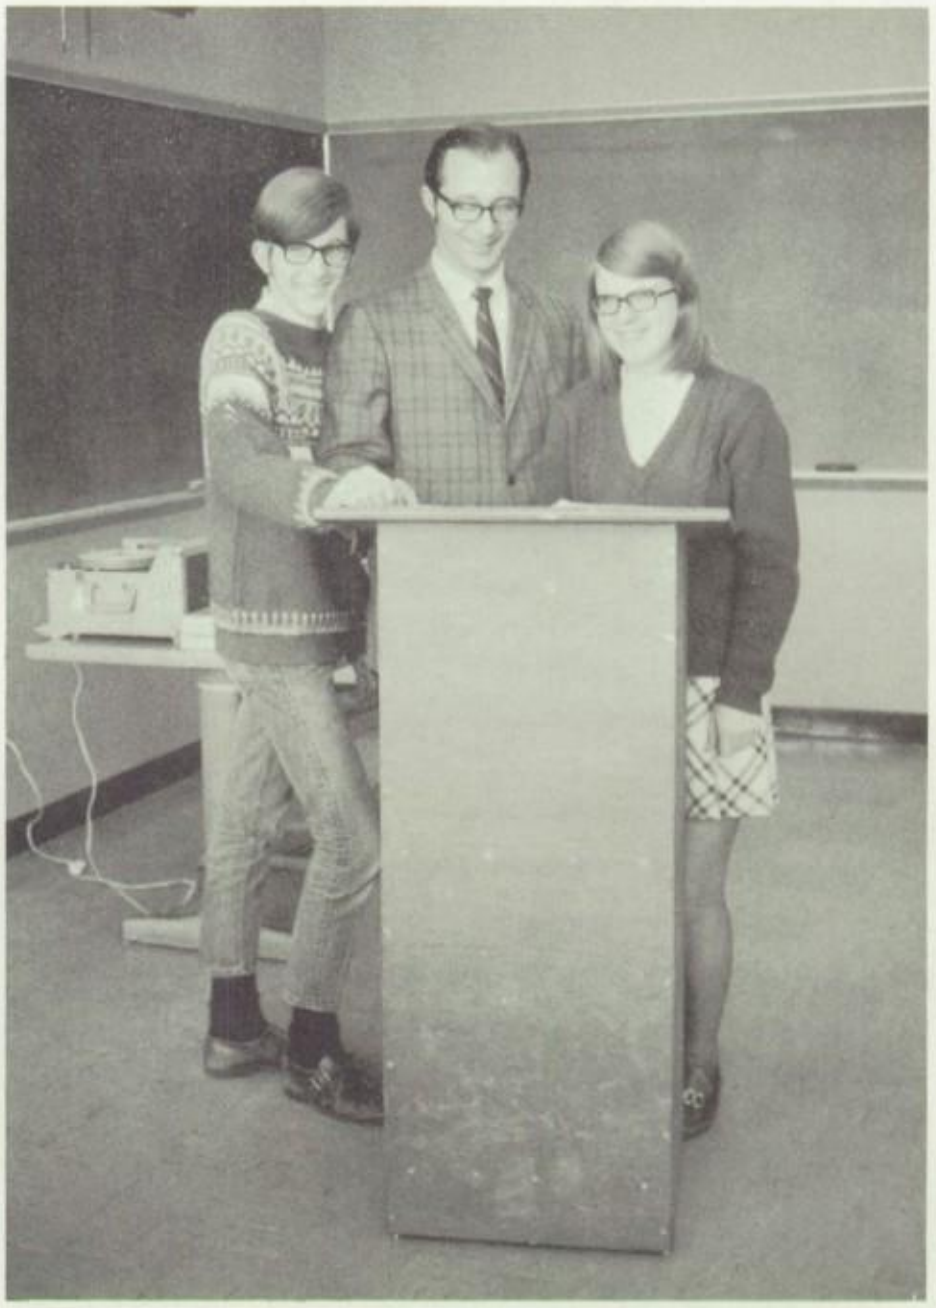
baters display their trophies of achievement.

Debaters Research Foreign Policy

The debate class, consisting of 20 mem-rs, was separated into three divisions, Var-y, Sub-Varsity and Novice. They made any trips, including seven overnights and mpeted in 18 tournaments. The Varsity uad entered district and sectional compe-ion and were eligible for state with a 6-0 cord.

The squads were coached by Mr. Art cMillion formerly from West Bend, Wiscon-n.

ncy Nicolet, Don Houser, Brad Myers and Carole lls are tournament bound.



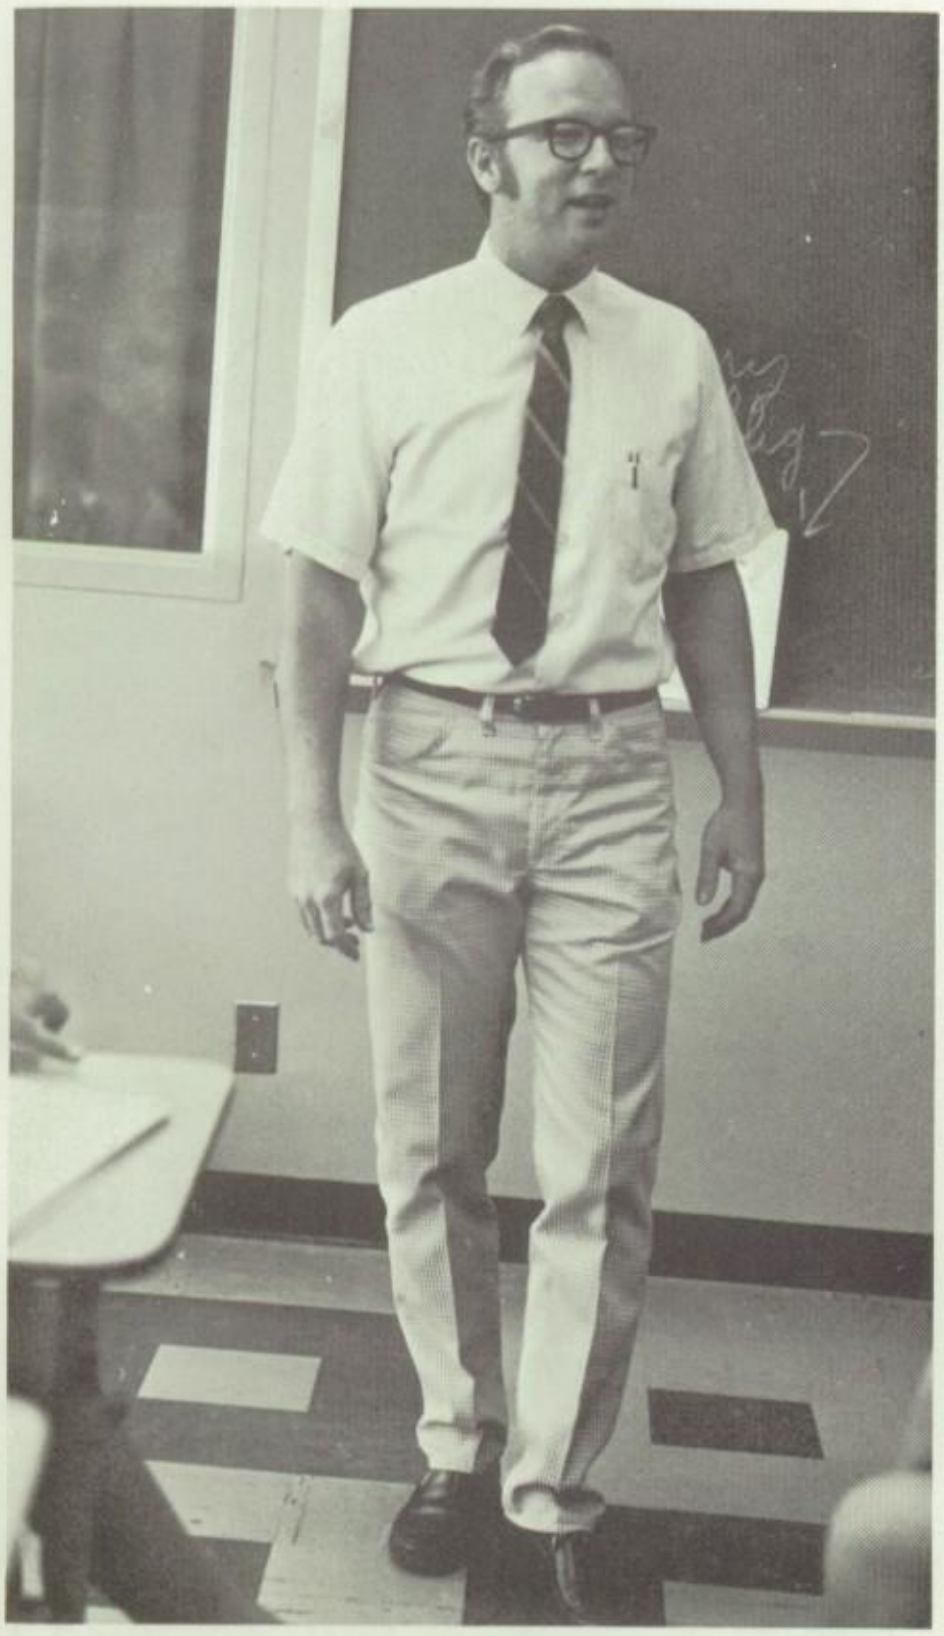
Scott Herrick and Beth Helwig discuss their strategy with Mr. McMillion.

Dramatists Project

Enhancing school productions was the main job of the drama department. Among these jobs are, aiding in the Variety Show, putting on plays, and producing the Academy Awards at the end of the year.

While first year students study the theater and work on stage exercises, second and third year students concentrate on playwrights, the modern theater, and continue work on stage.

Experimental theater was a new area introduced to drama classes.



Under careful direction of Mr. Weber, drama students easily increased stage knowledge.

Drama student, Debbie Harmon, performs onstage for the Variety Show.

Stagecraft Allows Creativity

Precision by Mark Mueller is required to make stage sets.

Stagecraft worked with drama classes to help create school productions. The students made the background scenery for plays, assemblies, and the Variety Show. Construction for the Variety Show included working on a ten foot statue of Athena. Mr. Weber, director of stagecraft, helped the students gain better understanding of stage crafts.

Variety Show's statue of Athena received finishing touches from Linda Lee.

Dave Myers and Dan Dachel find working with chicken wire exasperating.

To avoid accidents Mary Symicek finds cautious stepping necessary.

Pictures Relate Year

Deadlines within deadlines were used this year in order that Kodak could meet an early sixty-five page deadline in November.

For the first time, using co-editors, the pressure was put on two people in assuming responsibility for successfully meeting these deadlines, coordinating the book, and promoting cooperation in the staff.

As in past years, Kodak students scheduled pictures of school activities with the photography department. But for last minute pictures, they used their own Polaroid camera.

Surveying sample yearbooks is Mrs. Blackseth, Kodak advisor.

Co-editors, Vauri Henre and Barb Holzinger, choose division pages.

Staff members file each student's class schedule in its appropriate place.

Mr. Kinney heads the school newspaper as advisor.

Wings Stir Controversy

Two new sections, including letters to the editor and correspondence with former Memorial students in Vietnam, were used to put more life into the "Wings" this year. The staff, advised by Mr. Kinney, established an Editorial Council to debate controversial issues. The policy was to present both sides of problems that affect Memorial students and the community.

Talent Is Revealed

Improvements in the art department caused an increase of about 25 students. Slides and a projector were purchased for more visual contact. The students' use of copper enameling and an additional potters wheel also enriched the course. Miss Martin, an intern teacher, aided Mr. Killen with the art classes during the first semester.

Carolyn Buza helps paint a sign of the school emblem for the Co-op parking lot.

Art students draw Bonnie Boyken as she poses for them.

Varieties of color can be made by mixing paints.

Experimenting on still lifes are Darlene Gordon and Cindy Rhude.

larging pictures is only one of the activities of the otography class.

Pictures Tell a Story

Besides learning to take pictures and to develop them, the photography class also plays a major role in depicting the activities of the school in pictures. Because of the increased request for the course, ten or fifteen students had to be turned away. A new electronic light and enlarger were purchased this year, and for the first time the staff had an opportunity to work with colored prints.

A lifetime hobby is many times an outgrowth of the class.

Printing pictures involves timing.

Dave Voss and Bill Dean decide which music to record for the class radio program.

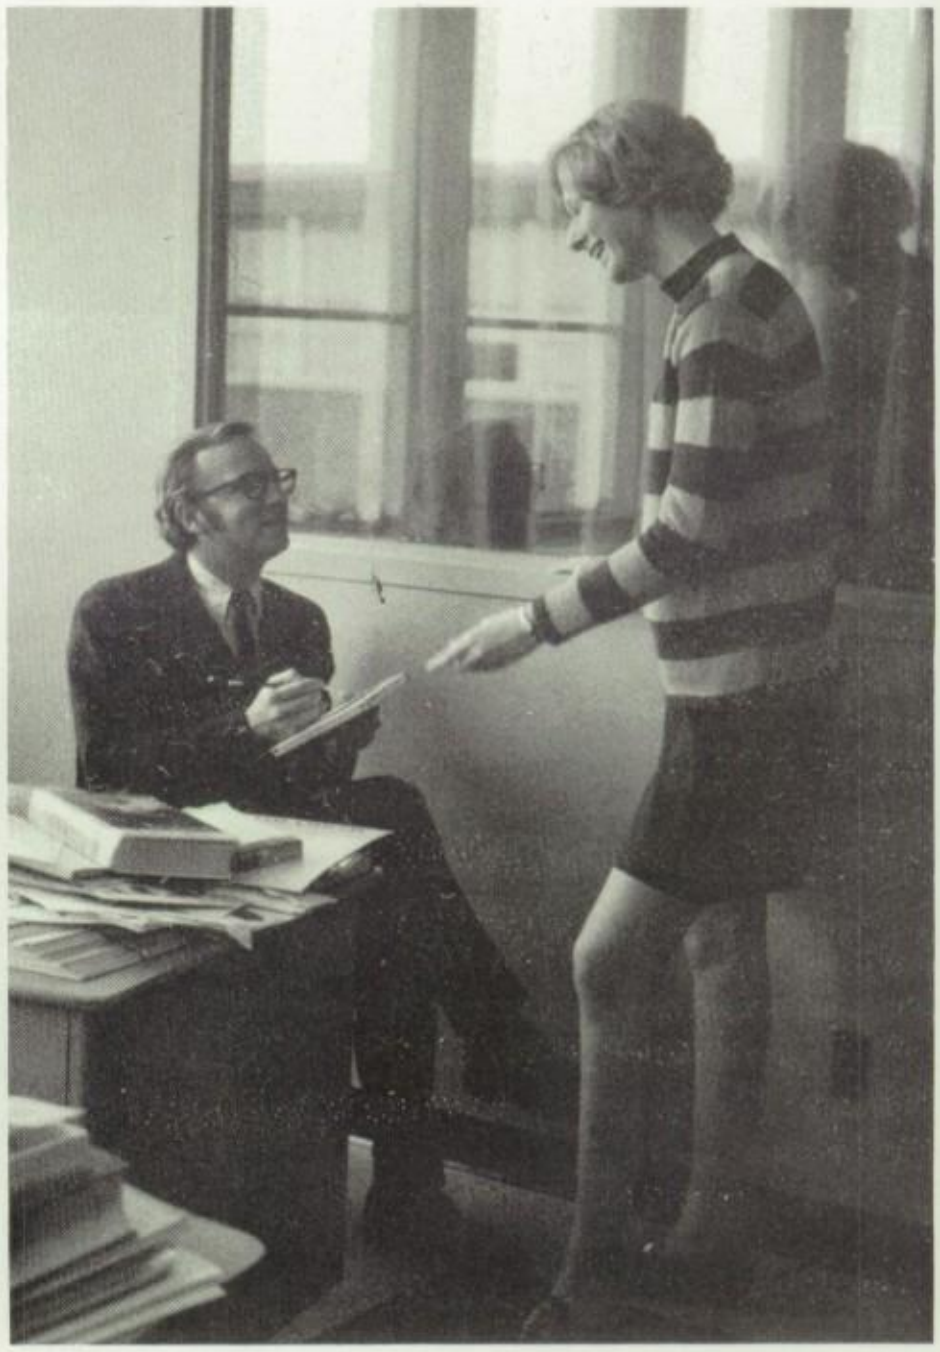
Students must test and listen to various records before taping.

Ideas Are Broadcast

As the media of radio and television have grown in importance, the need for people skilled in these areas has grown. The Radio-T.V. Class has given students an awareness of the use, and possible misuse, of these media as propaganda tools.

A radio program, ranging in subject from current events to witchcraft, was produced by the class during the first quarter. They also planned to present two television specials.

Just prior to recording, Steven Robertson and Jon Quick scan their scripts.



Finished tapes are interviewed before delivery to the radio station.

Showing 16 mm films is an audio-visual activity familiar to all, but many other teaching aids were supplied by the department. A variety of equipment, such as tape recorders, phonographs, overhead projectors, and closed circuit television, were provided. All filmstrips and records, available for use by students or teachers, were kept in this section. Making transparencies for use on overhead projectors and videotaping activities which can be viewed later on closed circuit T.V. were among the services provided.

Choir Receives Recognition at Madison

A busy year was enjoyed by the choir. Along with the performance of three concerts, they were chosen from a tape to represent our school at the state music convention in Madison. Because of their outstanding performance, they were invited to submit a tape for the National Music Convention at Kansas City next year. A trip to Chicago highlighted the season.

Orchestral Rhythm Crescendos

January ninth was an important date for Memorial's orchestra this past year. In competition with other high schools and universities they were chosen to play at the Music Educators' Convention in Madison.

Among the numerous other activities, the orchestra presented a November fall concert and performed at the Masonic Temple for the mentally retarded during Christmas.

Making use of practice rooms are Karlene Bauer, Marty McRoberts, and Lea Deilke.

Orchestra officers are Stacey Bowers, Starr Bruner, Jann Solander, and Ginny Stelzner.

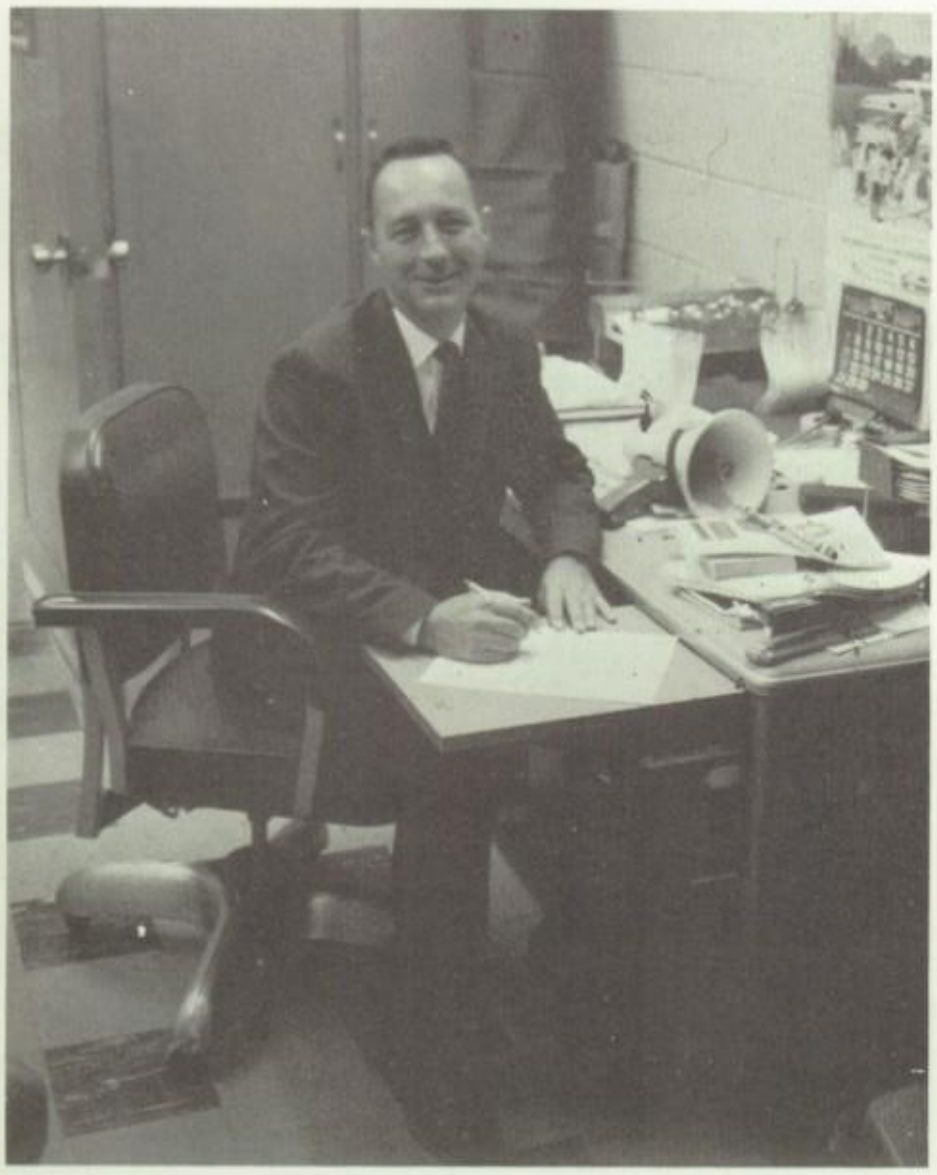
New Uniforms Add Color and Appeal to Band



Mr. Kuehn finds much paper work connected with directing a band.

Directing this year's MHS band was Mr. Kuehn, a former Mondovi instructor. With Mr. Kuehn, came many new ideas. For the first time he incorporated one drum major and five majorettes into the band.

One big change the MHS band has undergone is the growth in the number of members. The increase was more than twenty five percent.

Accenting their January winter concert, the band performed in new uniforms.

Majorettes add to band formations.

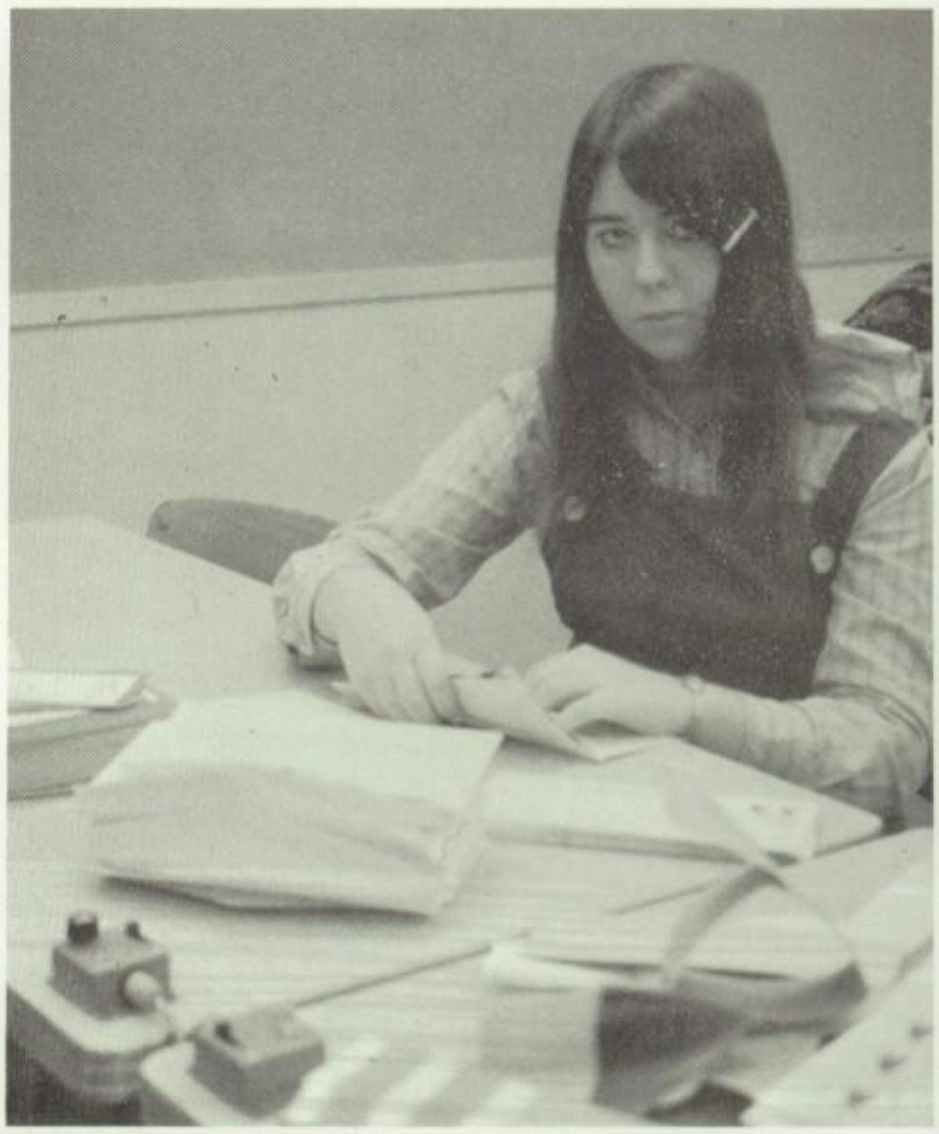
Learning Techniques Develops Proficiency

To begin their study in business, students enrolled in data processing, bookkeeping, and secretarial classes. Two new teachers were added to the faculty in the business department. They were Miss Tibbits, typing, and Mrs. Renaldi, data processing.

A new activity, the Secretarial Co-op, was added to the business department this year. Nine girls were sent out on jobs 6th and 7th hours. These girls gained experience for further office work.

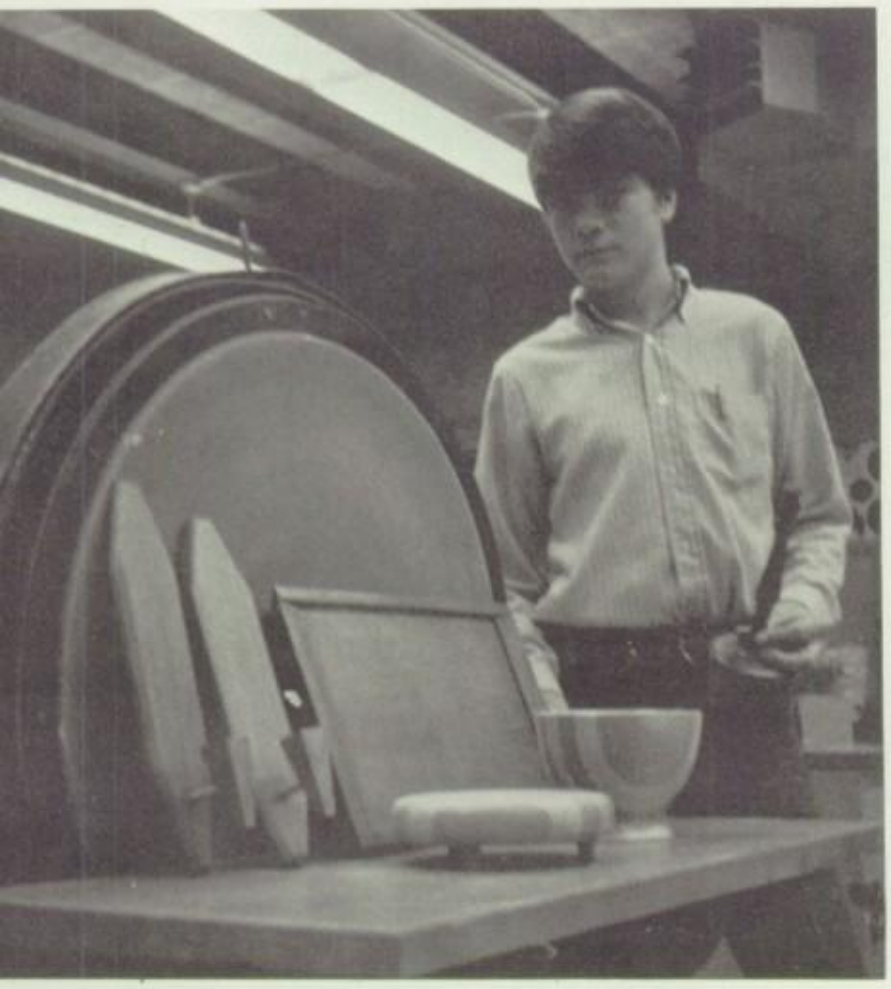
Beginning typing student, Chuck Hogstad, does daily typing drills.

An effective way for Barb Gilbertson to learn shorthand is by the use of a tape-recorder.

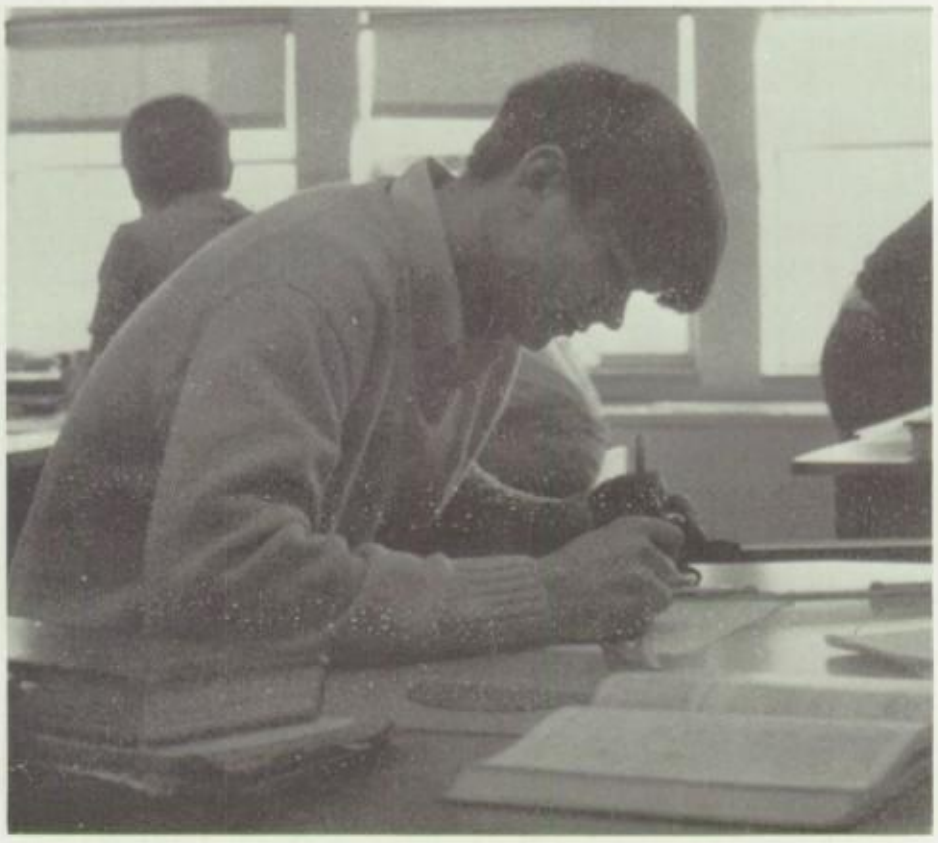


Distributing Christmas seals is Linda Schevingle.

Using a rotary machine is Business Ed. student, Marcia Krogman.



m Syth exhibits his projects for wood-working.



Diligently working on drafting plans is Jim Faulkner.

Many Activities Comprise Industrial Arts

Useful projects were made in Industrial rts to prepare boys for a future in mechani- l work. While working with various types machines, safety rules had to be enforced all times. This fact became apparent when vo accidents occurred. Mr. Bents cut his and on an electric saw and Mike Aasen in- red his fingers.

udying the intricate parts of a television set is Jeff rocki.

Sanding wood is one of the preliminary steps Greg Belden takes to complete his final project.

Fabrics and Foods Dominate Home Economics

Before dress construction starts, Peggy Olson selects the appropriate pattern.

Experience in hospitality and serving was practiced on December 17, when the girls Home Ec. classes served an all-day open house for the staff and faculty of Memorial. The girls displayed 72 varieties of holiday cookies and had coffee for the teachers.

During the second semester, they learned the proper care and construction of clothing.

Measuring the correct pattern layout is Barb Tobisch.

Boys Enjoy Cooking

Early in December, the Boys' Chef classes exhibited for sampling their Christmas cookies along with those of the Home Ec. classes.

This year the boys received experience in most aspects of cooking. Foods ranging from appetizers and salads, to main course dishes and meats, to desserts were prepared and served in an appealing manner.

Hungry chefs sample their creation after careful preparation.

Mrs. Rasmussen checks the final product of Jeff Smith and Jim Schemensky.

Activities Improve Physical Fitness

Romans recognized physical education as a means of training for war. Germany favored gymnastics, but this year physical education classes were devoted to helping the student develop his skill, power, efficiency, conditioning, attitudes, and understanding that would lead to his future well-being. Offered at Memorial were several opportunities to improve physical fitness in such activities as tumbling, archery, swimming, dancing, basketball, and golf.

Senior boys display their skills in archery.

Some girls will do anything to get to gym class on time.

Performing balance beam routines are Linda Playter and Gayle Gooding.

Mr. Kopp explains the complexity of an engine to Connie DeMoe.

Students Acquire Driving Skills

Approximately three hundred sixty-five ersons were added to the list of motorists s the result of Memorial's driver education ourse, under the guidance of Mr. Matz and Ir. Kopp.

Upon completion of a seven week aca- emic course, students were required to en- age in six hours of driving experience and ix hours of observation. During these ses- ions, country, city, residential, and freeway riving was mastered.

"Indians Dazed"

Homecoming festivities commenced with the traditional Clash and Color Days. The Senior Class float, "Munch Menomonie," took first place in the parade. Second place was awarded to Pep Club's "Bug Menomonie". At the game's opening kickoff, fans launched helium filled balloons, including two enormous ones with over-sized postcards. The Abes were again victorious when they massacred the Indians 26-13. Homecoming weekend climaxed with the crowning of Tom Poquette and Jane Sorensen as King and Queen of "MacArthur Park." Gregg Bohlig and Debbie Olson reigned as Vice-King and Queen.

Library Council predicted a victory with their presentation to the team.

A.F.S. Fosters

At an AFS meeting, Merry Hill demonstrated the use of her Turkish waterpipe.

Coming to Memorial from Toulouse, France, Myline Perisse was this year's exchange student. In October the annual AFS Tea was held in her honor. To commemorate National Education Week, the members of AFS sponsored an apple sale. Candy canes were then sold at Christmas time. "Penny Wednesday", which was a system of saving pennies, was another new idea to earn money. All these created interest in the Student Exchange Program.

In January, Jill Anderson, a Memorial senior, returned from spending one year in New Zealand. While there, she attended school with her "sister", Elizabeth Fyfe.

During the summer of 1969 another Memorial student, Merry Hill, spent three months in Turkey. As most other exchange students, Merry found her stay in Turkey a rewarding experience.

Memorial's Old Abe football team finished the 1969-70 season in a first place tie with Wausau for the Big Rivers Conference Championship. The Abes shattered several Big Rivers records, while leading in offense and having the number two defense in the conference. Tom Poquette was the leading rusher and point scorer, and Rich Hagen led the team in pass receptions. Both Poquette and Hagen were elected to the All State teams. All State quarterback, Greg Bohlig, was also named Big Rivers Most Valuable Player. Three underclassmen, Brian Tainter, Allen Hanson, and Jeff Vorpahl, excelled in Varsity play and will provide the nucleus for next year's team.

Curlers Seek Revenge

Four returning lettermen sparked the 1969-1970 curling team to a three win, two loss season. Although the team was not a member of the Big Rivers Conference, they competed in the sectional tournament. The curlers, coached by Mr. O'Gara placed third in the second event at the Wausau Invitational Bonspiel, and managed to defeat crosstown rival North High in two thrilling matches.

Abes Ski to Conference Lead

Excellent conditions aided the Abe skiers during the 1969-1970 season. Lee Otterholt, the conference point leader, helped the team to gain the largest number of wins in the conference. Because the Pinehurst ski area was closed this year, Coach Nelson's team practiced in the Forest Hill Cemetery.

Leaving the starting point in the Slalom course is Matt Playter.

Abes Regain Undisputed Championship

Ranking second in both the Associated Press and the United Press International Polls, Memorial's Old Abes finished the season with a perfect 18-0 record. Ten seniors formed the original team, then later in the year, two juniors helped out in Varsity action. The reserves, known as the "Bombers", also aided in crucial situations. Memorial regained an undisputed Big Rivers Conference title with a 12-0 Conference record. In the first game, the Abes defeated Madison's city champions, Madison East. Two other key games were against John Marshall of Rochester, the 1969 Minnesota State Champions, and Wausau. Wausau was defeated in an exciting over-time game.

Abe scoring statistics showed a decisive advantage over their opponents. The team made fifty percent of field goal shots attempted, and averaged 79 points per game to their rivals' 58.

Young Abes Mature into Solid Squad

A large turnout of nineteen boys made up he 1969-1970 sophomore basketball team. Through strenuous practices and aggressive scrimmages the young Abes fashioned an eight win seven loss season record. Several players were elevated to the Junior Varsity squad. The Sophomore team was coached by Mr. Charles Erickson. Sophomore experience will help these boys on the Junior Varsity and Varsity levels.

SOPHOMORES
Search for an Identity

New Discoveries Made

When Sophomores enter a new high school, they come into contact with many new and different situations they never had to face before.

As the year began, they were filled with confusion at a new school. New activities they found were Clash Days, Color Days, and Homecoming. They discovered many additional responsibilities and had to make many important decisions. Floats and the Variety Show provided worthwhile experiences. W o r k along with play was evident, and yet each Sophomore has unforgettable memories of one or all of these.

And the day went on and on and on.

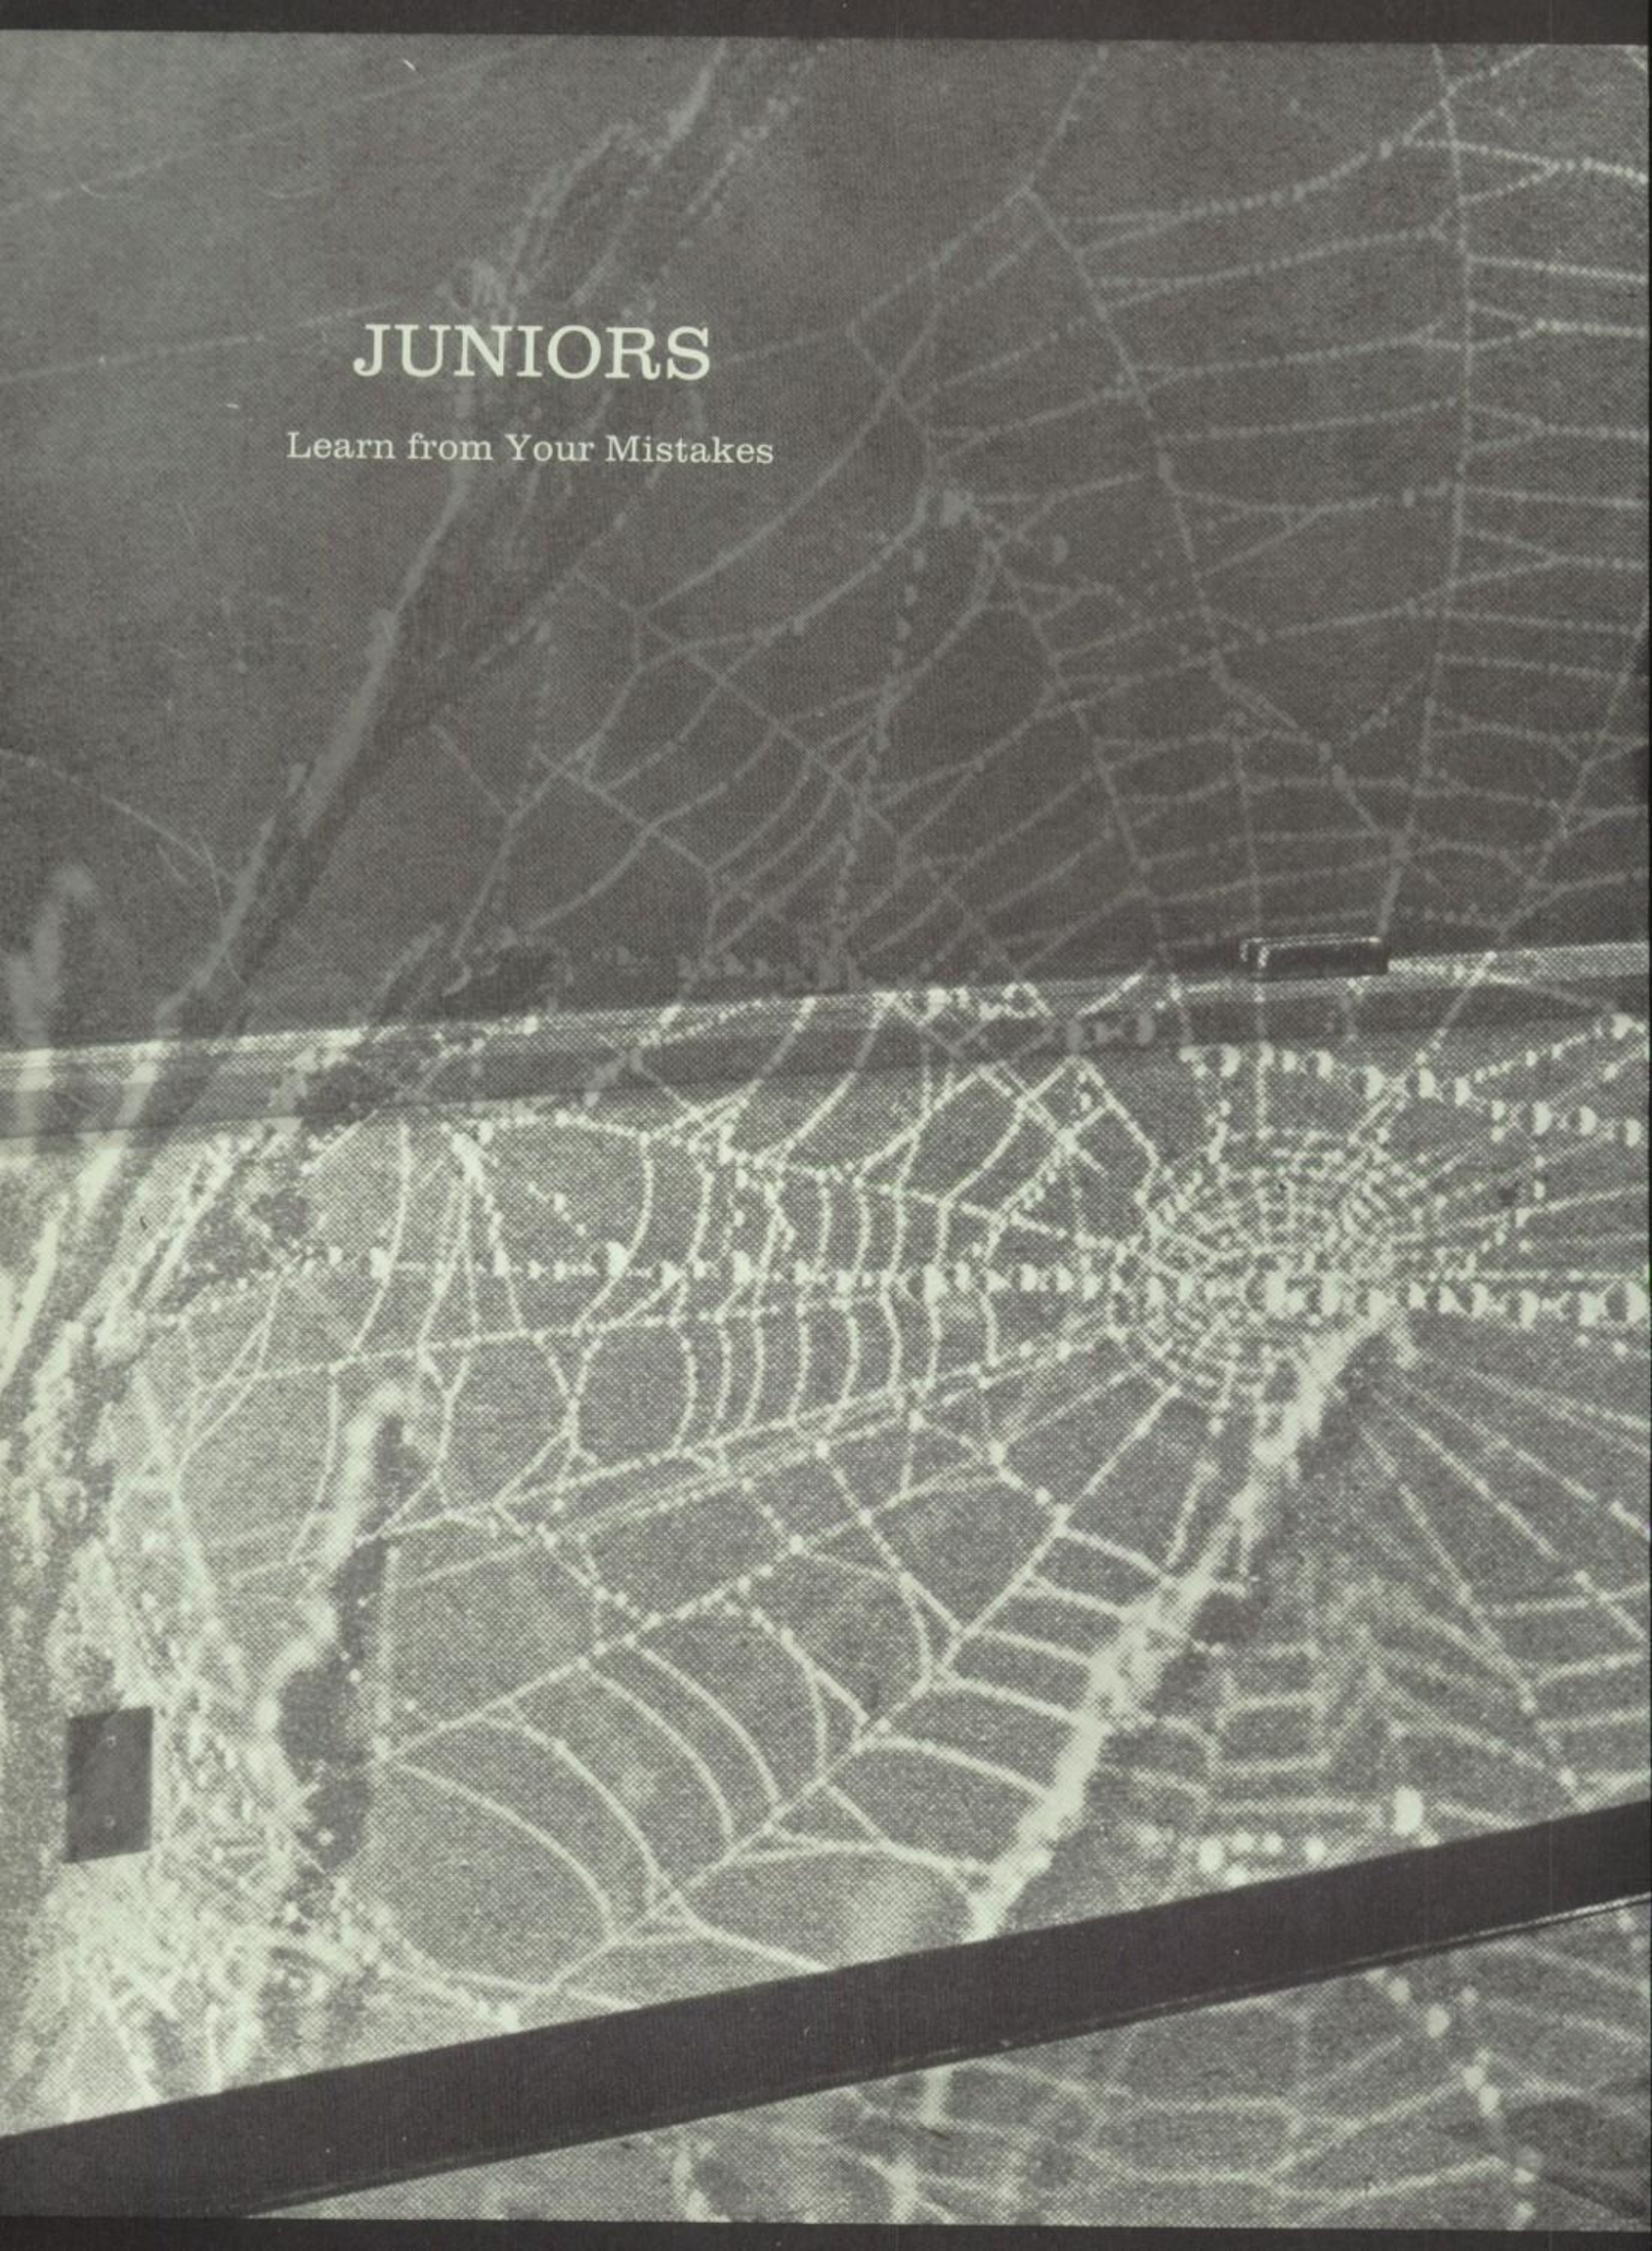
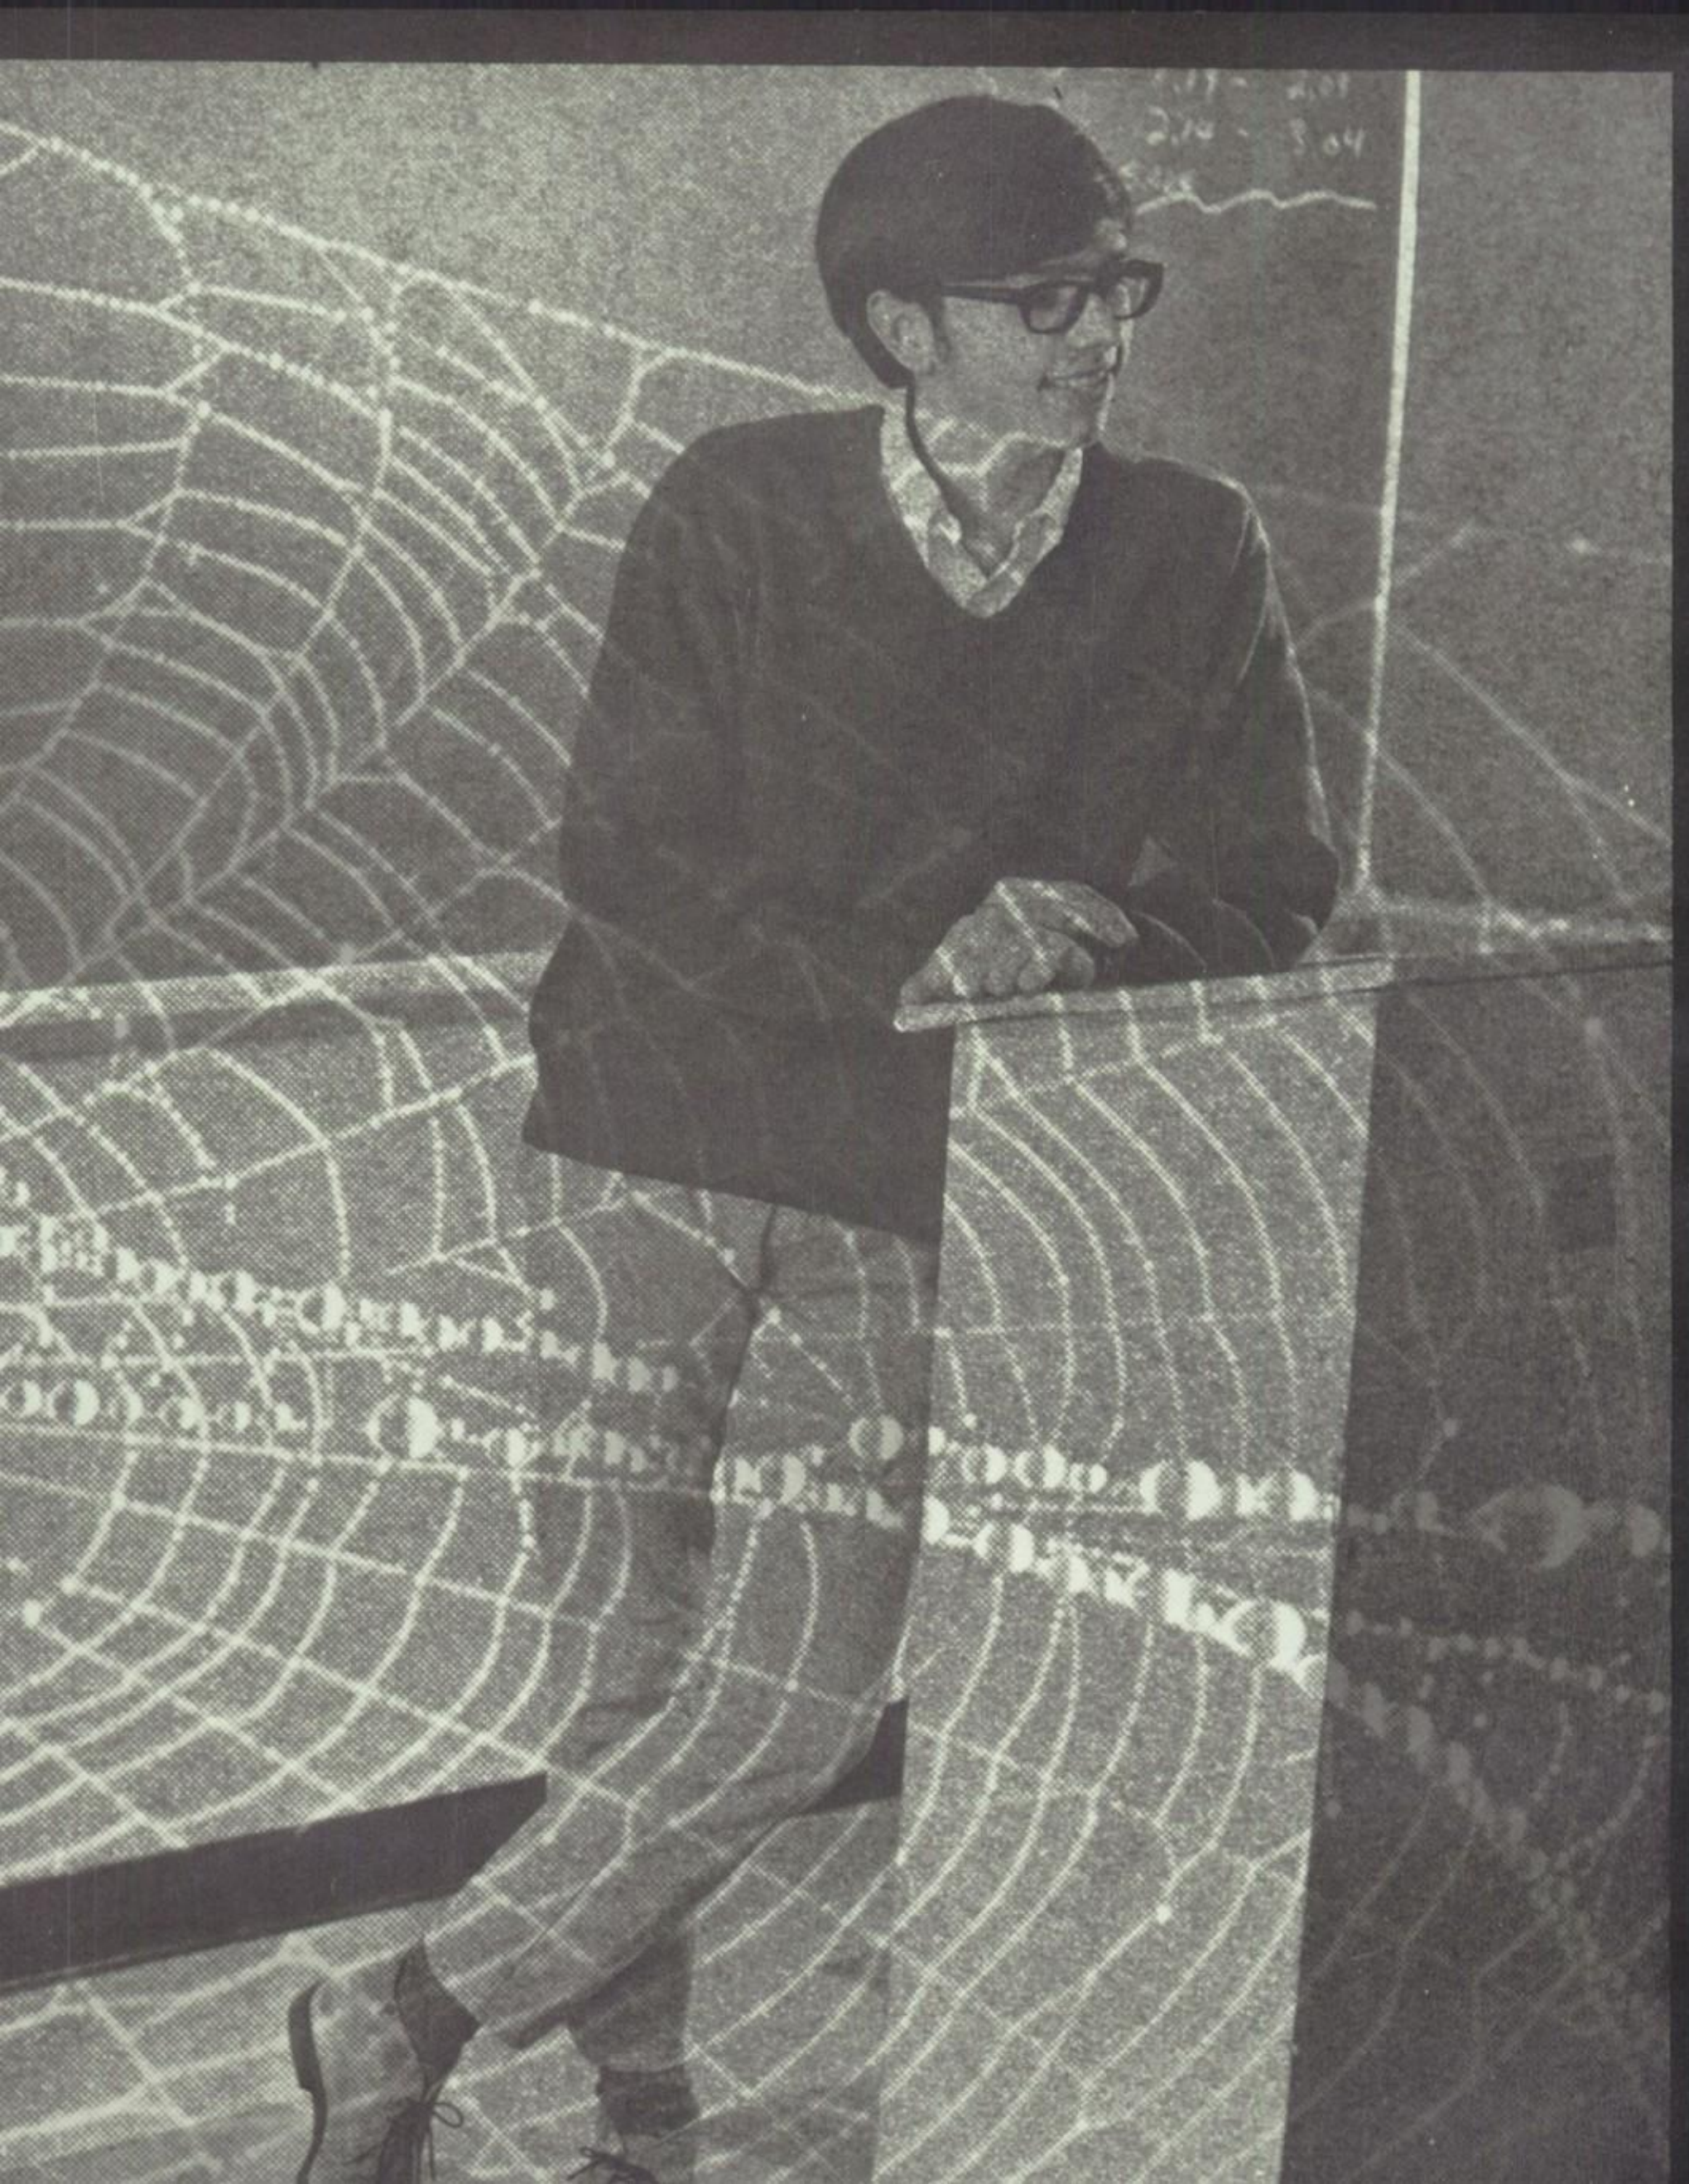
JUNIORS

Learn from Your Mistakes





Experience Grows

Juniors, being the middlemen, played an important part in student activities.

One of their first projects was the making of the Junior Class float, which won third place in the Homecoming parade.

Providing the decorations for the Junior-Senior Prom was another of their responsibilities.

At the conclusion of the year the faculty voted for the students who became members of the National Honor Society.

With these and other achievements to their credit these 597 students concluded their Junior year.

Tomorrow Is Yesterday

Seniors participated in many activities, beginning with the making of the senior class float, which won first prize. There was also a new club formed composed of senior boys, who called themselves the Bleacher Bombers. The additional cheering section promoted school spirit among all students. Senior Grub Day was initiated after the passing of no dress code.

Many plans for the future were made including scholarships and financial aid programs that were offered in different areas of education. All seniors took Social Studies for further knowledge, while English was elected for college bound students.

The Senior Class Banquet completed the activities for the year and marked the end of the beginning for the class of 1970.

Acknowledgements

Capturing the present for future memories is the basic purpose of a yearbook. Through much cooperation, the 1970 Kodak was made possible. First, we extend our hearty thanks to our advisor, Mrs. Blackseth, for her understanding guidance throughout the year. For providing the staff with many pictures and special photography effects, we offer our gratitude to Mr. Torgerson and his class. We also wish to acknowledge the Eau Claire businessmen who bought advertising in our yearbook which helped finance it. Another essential person was Mr. Terpstra, our ICP representative, who gave us many ideas and helped sponsor a workshop that indoctrinated the staff in yearbook basics. A special thanks goes to all Seniors who get their pictures to us on time; to those who did not, we regret their omission. Finally, thanks to the faculty and students for providing us with material for the book.

Moments We Remember

Abes Gain Recognition

Within the field of sports, Memorial ined recognition for various achievements. ne Old Abes were presented with the Good portsmanship award from the State Tourna- ent in Madison. One of Memorial's top restlers, Gary Johnson participated in the ate wrestling meet. Also, the Ski Team was ronounced first in the state, after a fine eason.

District Forensic winners: Standing: B. Roycraft, S. Herrick, G. Cairns, J. Lutz, D. Houser, M. Hill, C. Mattson, D. Larkin. Seated: M. Gold, L. Lewis, C. Sorenson.

Boys Learn Automotive Skills

Fifty-one students are enrolled in the uto Mechanics course which meets every norning at the Board of Education Annex. Ir. Wayne Peters, the instructor, teaches a ombined class of Memorial and North stu- ents. The course covers many phases of the utomotive industry.

The highlight of the year was the Ply- nouth Trouble Shooters Contest held in Mad- son. Gerry Williamson and Alan Skelton ook second place in the Trouble Shooting ractical Exercises.

Ir. Peters, Gerry Williamson and Alan Skelton dis- lay trophies won at the Plymouth Trouble Shooting ontest.

One of the tasks performed in auto mechanics is to dismantle and reassemble carburetors.

Abes Gain Third in State

With the experience of two season's teamwork and one previous trip to Madison, the Old Abes entered State Tournament competition. The team sharpened its skills as it swept through preliminary games. North was the first to fall in the annual District game, while Regional play saw the defeats of Boyceville and Chippewa Falls. The final two challengers, Superior and Cumberland, were met and beaten at the Spooner Sectionals.

The first round at Madison paired Memorial and Durand, the Abes gaining the victory in a hard fought game. The second round matched numbers one and two, as the Purple lost its first game to the Appleton West Terrors. The team played well under pressure to beat Wauwatosa East for the third place trophy.

Through the tension and excitement of the tournament, Memorial students generated enough spirit to win yet another trophy, the Good Sportsmanship Award.

"Seventy" Swings

Under the theme, "Swinging 70's", Miss Connie Ulrich directed the 1969-70 tumbling show.

Advanced tumblers performed synchronized routines on the vault, mini-tramp, balance beam, trampoline, and unevens. Beginning tumblers executed such routines as marching, jumping rope, and floor exercises.

Golf and Tennis Compete in State

Highlights for the tennis team were many this year. The varsity extended its dual match record to twenty-two consecutive victories. A tournament squad, made up of the top four players, won the Conference and Sectional tournaments, thus advancing to State.

Led by two fine seniors, Dick Bergman and Jim Mackenzie, the golf team placed fifth in Conference, only six strokes out of first place, and earned a second at the West Salem Invitational. A victory at Sectionals won the squad a berth at State for the second straight year.

Abes Rally to Win

Built on a solid base of returning lettermen, the 1970 baseball team remained one of the area's powers in the sport. Its regular season record ended with eight wins against three losses. The Abes continued victorious during the early stages of tournament play. After winning the sectional, they went on to compete in the state tournament. Seniors Bob Burling, with a .390 batting average, and Stan Morley, whose 7-0 pitching record included one perfect game, led in the individual categories.

Trackmen Host New Meet

Memorial's track season was one of planning for the future. The team posted a 1-2 record in dual meets and placed sixth in the Big Rivers Conference. A new event, the Old Abe Invitational Track Meet, was initiated. Outstanding individuals included Jim Ostrum and Jim Dahl in the hurdles and Dave Turner who set a school record in the 220.

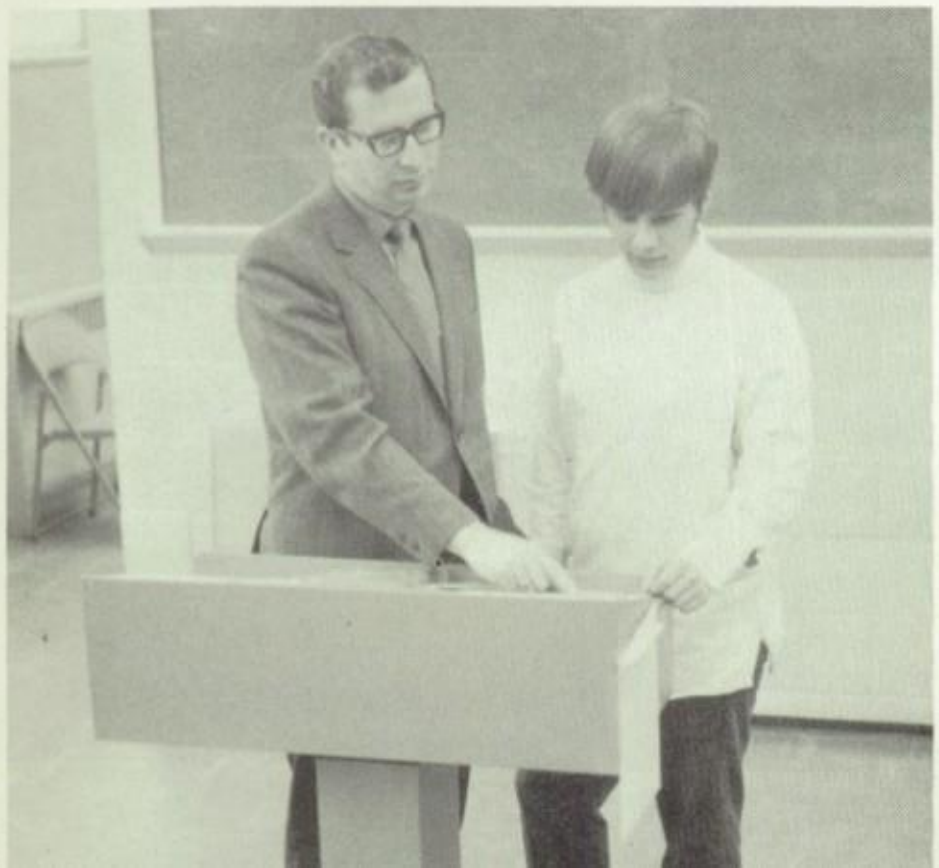
Competition Motivates Musicians



Through the selection of forty-seven band members, the 1969-70 Memorial Pep Band was formed. Playing at all basketball and football games, the Pep Band helped increase Old Abe spirit.

April 4 was the date for the District Solo and Ensemble Contest held at Memorial. Numerous high schools in the Eau Claire area participated in the contest. Each contestant was judged on a 1 to 5 basis, and those receiving ones went on to state competition.

Emerald Isle Reigns

Memorial's Junior Prom of 1970 was held in the Southwoods Room at the Eau Claire University instead of at the school gym. Another tradition was also broken when the Junior and Senior classes elected a King and Vice-King to reign over the dance. The Juniors elected as King, Jeff Smith and his date, Karlene Bauer, served as Queen. Cal Ganong and Mary Jo Langdon were Vice-King and Queen. The theme of the night was "Emerald Isle".

Seniors Climax Activities

Greg Cairns renders last speech.

The Senior Class Banquet was held Friday evening, May 15 in the Davies Center at WSU. Honored guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher. Other members of the head table included: Mark Phillips, Greg Cairns, Vauri Henre, Bill Dean and Steve Staves. Approximately 250 people attended the event. Memorial's own Madrigals performed and a special performance by Stacy Bowers, an accomplished marimba player, highlighted the evening. Bill Dean gave his views of the Seniors.
